Three Persons Die In Watertown Fire

Graystone Hotel Burns; 22 Guests Are Saved; Two Are Injured

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—Three persons died today and two others were injured when fire swept the three-story Graystone Hotel in downtown Watertown.

Twenty-two other guests fled to safety; were rescued by firemen.

Two of the dead were identified as a Watertown funeral home as William Miller, 62, and Eugene E. Godfrey, 63, both of this city.

Sarant Pool, 71, also of Watertown, died in a nearby hospital, when the conditions of Joseph King, 74, was listed as serious.

A fifth person, Clarence Kennedy, 22, was treated at the House of Good Samaritan on shock.

Cause of the blaze brought under control after three hours, has not been determined.

Twenty-two guests occupied rooms on the second and third floors of the three-story brick and wood hotel known for years as the City Hotel a landmark in this northern New York locality.

Three persons were rescued by firemen and police from the third floor, where the fire apparently started. One of the rescued, Thomas Coleman, 41, clinging for a time to a ledge 30 feet above the street after closing his room window behind him.

Some of the persons who occupied the third floor were able to make their way through the smoke-filled corridors to safety. All occupants of the second floor escaped.

The roof of the hotel plunged to the third floor after the fire had raged an hour.

Firemen succeeded in preventing the blaze from spreading to the adjoining Hotel, separated from the Graystone by a driveway.

At Least 7 Die In Railroad Crash On West Coast

Southern Pacific Train Hits Broken Rail at Bakersfield; Many Hurt

Bakersfield, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—Seven persons were known to have been killed, Coroner Norman Houze said today, and many others were injured when a Southern Pacific passenger train struck a broken rail 12 miles northwest of here early today.

He added one or two more might have died in the wreck.

Deputy Coroner John Weris, also at the wreck scene, said three of the known dead are women.

Some of the bodies removed from the wreckage were badly mangled, making determination of the exact number killed difficult.

Kern County General Hospital, where most of the injured were being treated, estimated them at 75 to 100, including those less seriously hurt.

The dead included these, tentatively identified:

James LeRoy Hall, Kansas City, Mo.

Bessie Diles, Richmond, Calif.

Pvt. Joseph Bernavich, Richmond, Calif.

Ghastly Scene

The sheriff's deputy reported that the wreckage was a ghastly scene and that legs and arms were torn from some of the victims.

"The halls are full of injured and we are working on them desperately," said an attendant at the Kern County Hospital here. Names of the dead and injured were not yet available. One of the injured was a youngster whose leg was severed in the wreck.

Ambulance crews, sheriff's deputies and others worked feverishly to extricate the injured and rush them to hospitals.

A Southern Pacific dispatcher said the train, Owl No. 58 which hurtled at 60 m.p.h. at 6:30 a.m. last night and was due in Los Angeles at 8:24 a.m. today, usually travelled at 60 miles an hour along the stretch where the wreck occurred.

The engineer, H. P. Lawrence, and the conductor, George Cochran of Los Angeles, were unhurt, as were a mechanic and three baggage cars behind it.

Seven passenger cars of the 15-car train remained upright.

The consistory of the First Dutch Reformed Church approved a proposition to dispose of the Bethany Mission property on Washington avenue and North Front street at a congregational meeting in the church last night.

The sale is the outcome of an offer of $8000 made by Jack Shorr and Albert Flick. The consistory offered the motion for the sale of the property and it was carried unanimously.

Roger Loug van, attorney for the church, is preparing the necessary deeds and is expected to have them ready in a week.

Although the purchasers declined comment it is believed the present frame structure of Bethany Chapel will be razed and a new station erected on the corner.

Shorr operates a station across the street at the present time.

In order not to lose the long association which the church and mission have enjoyed and to continue the identity of the mission, it was decided last evening that hereafter the chapel or Sunday school room on the Wall street side of the church will be known as "Bethany Parish House."

Bethany Mission has been in existence for many years and was started as an adjunct to the First Dutch Church. Its services and maintenance have been under the direction and supervision of the church. In recent years the congregation has been diminishing to such an extent that it was decided its usefulness had reached an end. The purchase offer was considered by the consistory, taken before the congregation and was approved without opposition.

Miss Russ also announced the reconstruction program of the Y.W.C.A. which is being opened today at a luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York city. The local association has been assigned a quota of $1200 in the $2,100,000 campaign goal. Funds will be used

Ulster Job Mart Is at Its Lowest Point in 5 Years

Seasonal Layoffs Given Blame for Con. lition by Stanton; Expects Spring Pickup

The Ulster county job market has been at the lowest ebb in the last five years during December and the first two weeks of January, it was reported at the New York State Employment Service office today.

George J. Stanton, manager of the Kingston district, said the slump was due primarily to seasonal layoffs in area industries like brick yards and ship yards.

What few jobs were open have been readily filled, Mr. Stanton said, predicting that the job market will not approach normalcy until next spring.

The N.Y.S.E.S. office reported 45 job placements in the last weeks, including 16 females and eleven World War II veterans.

Job referrals totalled 52, including 12 veterans and 30 females.

Now, applications for jobs amounted to 286 of which 156 were veterans and 40 females.

From January 1 to January 15, the Kingston office handled 1,377 reception contacts.

The total active files as of January 2 was 1,810. The breakdown on this total was 1,510 males, 300 females and 94 veterans.

Schools Will Get Chance For Needed Equipment

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—New York schools will be able to purchase at discount "millions of dollars worth of urgently needed" equipment in a new group request plan, announced today by the War Assets Administration regional office.

Under the plan, arranged by the W.A.A. and the State Education Department, public and private schools would be able to pool their requests for submission to one order, the W.A.A. office advised.

Walter Conklin, a W.A.A. official, said the education department had been promised "every cooperative for group request and distribution of government surplus."

Brophy, Cramer Get 91 Per Cent In Solving Crimes

Handle 180 Complaints, Says Report; Clear 164 Cases in Police Work

Detectives Wesley Cramer and Clarence Brophy in their first annual report of activities of the detective force of the Kingston Police Department filed with the police board Thursday afternoon pointed out that they had investigated 180 complaints and solved 164, a percentage of 91 per cent.

During the eight months period covered by the report property thefts and losses totaling $5,243.55 were reported, and of that amount $3,849.22, or 79 per cent was recovered.

Cramer and Brophy were appointed detectives in April, 1946, and assumed their duties on May 1 of that year.

Since assuming their duties the two detectives have set up a system for the registering and filing of complaints, and accurate records are kept of each case.

During the eight months the detectives have been active they have worked in cooperation with many other law enforcement agencies.

Knowland Says Bill On Filibusters Coming

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Cal.) said today legislation to permit a gag on filibusters by simple majority vote is "going to be pushed."

He told a reporter he has hopes the Senate will get around to it before receiving any "highly controversial bills" which a minority might try to talk to death under present rules requiring a two-thirds vote to limit debate.

Chairman Wherry (R-Neb.) is expected to get together quickly with fellow members of a rules subcommittee to discuss procedure in handling such proposals. Senators Lyles (R-N.Y.) and Hayden (D-Ariz.) are the others on the group.

Knowland, a rules committee member, is author of one of three anti-filibuster resolutions referred to the subcommittee. He said he expects to testify at a hearing is held.

Senator George (D-Ga.), who opposes the resolutions, said he will confer with Wherry on behalf of Democrats "who don't want such a bill reported to the Senate without an opportunity to be heard on it."

Another southern senator said this group may number 22, which would provide ample manpower to filibuster against the anti-filibuster proposals.

Talmadge Seizes Capitol, Arnall Moves Downtown

Truman Okays Unity of Services

Army and Navy Would Be Under Secretary of National Defense

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—The army and navy high command, agreed on a plan for "unification," today promised cooperation and greater efficiency under a single cabinet officer.

One by one, Secretary of War Patterson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave their wholehearted endorsement to the new plan.

They spoke to a crowded news conference in the White House movie theatre.

Then they turned the meeting over to experts to go into details. But, for the most part, the plan, announced by President Truman last night, remained only a general proposition, with the chiefs to be filled in later.

Plan Is Announced

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—An agreement on "unification" of the army and navy under a secretary of national defense, with separate air, sea and land forces—has been reached by the two services. President Truman has given this compromise his blessing.

The plan announced by the White House last night ended a months-long controversy between the army and navy over proposals for merger of the two services.

Talmadge Aide Tells Arnall He Is Like Hog in Trough, Can't Stop

Atlanta, Jan. 17 (AP)—Herman Talmadge seized complete control of Georgia's capitol today and forced Ellis Arnall to move to a downtown office building.

Arnall, who has been governor for the past four years and claims he is still the State's legal executive despite the state legislature's naming of Talmadge, announced yesterday after being excluded from the executive chambers.

Arnall walked jauntily up the marble steps and entered the capitol door at 10:16 a. m.

He headed directly for the capitol rotunda where he occupied temporary offices yesterday.

Talmadge already had seized Arnall's desk and installed State Representative Jimmy Dykes there.

Arnall strode up to Rep. Dykes' desk and said "Jimmie, I'm Governor."

Dykes interrupted to say "Ellis Arnall, you remind me of a hog. You got your head in the trough and you just can't stop."

Arnall asked "Have you taken my office?"

Dykes replied "I have, I'm refusing to let you sit here. You

Police Hampered in Search For Suspects in Girl's Death

Los Angeles, Jan. 17 (AP)—Hampered by a scarcity of clues, police today pressed a roundup of suspects in the gruesome butchering of a young woman identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as Elizabeth Short, 22, whose birthplace was Hyde Park, Mass.

The Los Angeles Times said she was the daughter of Mrs. Phoebe M. Short, 46, of Medford, Mass.

The identification made by the F.B.I. in Washington was from fingerprints obtained when the girl was employed in the post exchange at Camp Cooke, Calif., in 1933.

The F.B.I. said fingerprints from the mutilated body tallied with those made at Camp Cooke and another at Santa Barbara Sept. 23, 1943, when the girl was taken into custody for alleged violation of juvenile court laws.

Santa Barbara Policewoman Mary Unkefer recalled that she put Miss Short, whom she described as a very attractive girl, on a train for Medford, "about nine days later."

In Medford, Mrs. Phoebe M. Short said she would not believe that the victim was her daughter until she was notified by police.

Mrs. Short said her daughter, Elizabeth, one of her five daughters, had been working as a motion picture extra until two weeks ago, when she was believed to have gone to San Diego to work in an army hospital.

Mrs. Short said a severe case of asthma made it necessary for Elizabeth to go to a warmer climate in the winter.

At San Diego, Police Detectives Ed Stotler and Gerald Walk said Mrs. Elvera French told them the slaying victim stayed at her home in Pacific Beach, San Diego suburb, for a month and left Jan. 7 with an unidentified red-haired youth, presumably headed for Hollywood.

Mrs. French, the detectives related, said her daughter, Dorothy, met Miss Short in a theatre early in December and invited her to their home. Mrs. French said the Short girl appeared "depressed and moody and unwilling to discuss her past other than to say she came from Hollywood."

Investigators still pinned their hopes for a "break" on finding a black sedan which a witness placed at the spot where the body was found, the morning of the discovery. The girl's body, severed at the waist and brutally hacked, was found in a vacant lot in the southwest section Wednesday.

Boss Points Out Gain in Traffic in City, Says Regulations Are in for Changes

611 Arrests Made

Says Personnel Is Now Normal Except for Some Absences

Appointment of 11 more patrolmen to increase Kingston's police force from the present 39 to 50 members, and the purchase of new radio equipment at a cost of $1500 were two of the recommendations contained in the annual report of Chief of Police Ernest A. Boss filed with the Board of Police Commissioners at its regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon.

Chief Boss in his report pointed out that more men were needed in order to police Kingston adequately and suggested that the necessary steps be taken to appoint additional patrolmen.

The police chief pointed out that while crime has been held to a minimum, with major crime almost non-existent, that traffic conditions within the city are becoming a problem of major importance.

Some changes have been made in traffic regulations during the past year, but many more must be made to facilitate the movement of traffic with speed consistent with safety.

During 1946 there were 611 arrests made in the city.

In his annual report the police chief said that the personnel of the police department is now at normal strength, except for Captain Fred Stoudt and Officer Len-ville Relyea, who are on sick leave, and Officers Grover Hoffay and William Krum, who are on leaves of absence and attending schools.

The chief's report in part follows: Taking the crime conditions of those areas which can be considered by us to be neighboring communities as a point of reference and for comparison, you will find that crime in the city of Kingston has been held to an absolute minimum, with major crime being almost non-existent.

Traffic conditions within the city are becoming a problem of major importance. Some changes in traffic regulations have been made during the past year, but many more must be made to facilitate the movement of traffic with speed consistent with safety.

Changes in Department

Many changes have been made within the department during the past year. Charles Phinney resigned as of April 30th, 1946, and Ernest A. Boss was appointed chief of police in his stead.

A captaincy was created with Frederick S. Stoudt receiving the appointment. William Redell was made a lieutenant and Lemuel Howard and Robert Murphy were made sergeants. Wesley Cramer and Clarence Brophy were made detectives, and two new recruits were appointed to the department and assumed their duties January 1st, 1947, after an extensive period of training. The personnel of the department is now composed of thirty-nine (39) regularly appointed and trained men, but this number of men is not enough to adequately police our city and also perform the associated duties as is required of police departments in these times. Therefore, I respectfully suggest that the necessary steps be taken, which when approved would permit the appointment of eleven (11) more patrolmen to augment our present force, thus bringing our strength to fifty (50).

I would like to call the attention of your honorable body to the condition of our present radio equipment. Our main station transmitter is one that has far exceeded the average useful life expectancy and which has been modified many times to meet new Federal Communications Commission regulations. The mobile transmitters in the radio cars are composite units constructed by the writer and due to the severe punishment to which they are subjected while in daily use have been repaired and patched so many times that they are now of very little practicable value as an instrument of communications. Therefore, I respectfully request that the Board of Aldermen be petitioned to issue bonds or capital notes in the amount of $4,500.00 under a capital improvement program, and that this money be used for the purchase and installation of a new main station radio transmitter at police headquarters, a new antenna and new mobile receivers and transmitters for our radio cars.

Protection Is Promised Apartment Dwellers

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Tenants of the upper Manhattan apartment building who hired armed guards for protection against muggers and burglars have been assured of adequate police protection.

"It's up to us to police the city, and we're not ducking that," Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander told newsmen yesterday. He then constituted the block in front of the building a 24-hour fixed patrolman's post and ordered special radio car service for the block.

The tenants hired the armed guards Christmas Eve after a series of crimes, including the strangulation of a woman tenant, had occurred in the building. They also asked the O. P. A. for a reduction in rent to defray the cost of the armed guards, and the O. P. A. announced it had given the case top priority.

road's last president before it went under a trusteeship. The others were directors of the company.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—Man is a beautiful thing, a butterfly born in a foggy day.

He is also a fading fugitive—and the natural prey of woman.

Therefore it comes as a surprise when the "office girls" of the Goodrich Company in Akron write in to ask "how we girls should go about picking a husband."

This is like a fox asking one rabbit how to catch another rabbit.

It is also a bit insincere, because—let's face it, girls—the problem isn't so much how to pick a husband as how to grab one.

Nature operates under the old economic law of supply and demand, and unfortunately for the sex who in the old days rode side-saddle, there are now more women than there are men.

Before you reach for and bend one of these innocent creatures to your steel whims, sister, think of whether you can make him happy in the cage you build to tame him.

Oh, but you must have him anyway! I thought so.

Then track him down as you would any wild animal. You have the unfair advantage. Man is a fair and unspoiled creature of the crowd. He enters adult life as the great adventurer, the dreamer and the doer. This is why most great deeds, inventions and poems are wrought by men.

You, sisters, are the schemers. You "minions of the moon"—as Shakespeare called you—are really nothing more than crutches the Lord gave men to sustain them in the disappointment of their dreams.

"You can't make it yourself, sonny boy," you tell the frustrated paycheck man. "But maybe if we have a boy, it will."

Down Payment on Posterity And thereupon the disillusioned man makes a down payment on posterity. That fulfills your destiny—to be the link that keeps mankind a going concern.

But you probably know this already—as every woman does, and fight it as you will. Yet you still want to know how to catch that husband? You practice a thing, you!

Well, darling, catch him in his tummy, or in his loneliness. The bigger he talks the smaller he is—somewhere. Be there when he isn't sure of himself, and no man always is. Don't pepper him—save him.

If you are a beautiful girl, go for a homely man. He'll be grateful, and keep your beauty green when it is as old a memory as five-cent beer. If you are the kind of girl with hair like hemp and teeth like a fractured buzz saw, try for a handsome man. You'll make him look good in the later days when he needs the benefit of contrast. And anyway plain girls, by God's bounty, develop personality and character that outwears gold—or beauty.

Man is a victim of appetite. You have to bait the trap for a husband just as you would if you were going to catch a bear. Feed him when he is hungry, stroke him when he is angry. Give more than you get—at least until he leans upon you. Make yourself his habit. When the befuddled thing can't quite do without you, lead him slowly and gently to the altar. Now you have your husband. But can you make him wear the

Employment Increases

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—Factory employment in New York state increased by about 9,000 during November despite a drop of 14,400 in the apparel industry. Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi reported last night that the state total of production and non-production workers was raised to 1,898,000. Employment increases during November were reported in aircraft and shipbuilding, machinery manufacturing, electrical machinery, chemical products, paper, iron and steel, and printing plants.

South Pole Slicker May Clean Up as Travel Broadens

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Aboard U.S.S. Mt. Olympus in Antarctica, Jan. 17 (AP)—You could have a little gold mine at the South Pole, even without discovering any gold.

All you would have to do is buy gold at the equator and sell it—at the same price—at the South Pole. The force of gravity would give you a profit because the gold would weigh more than at the equator.

The added weight is due greatly to the pull of gravity. The earth flattens at the pole, making you closer to the earth's center. Centrifugal force is decreased. At the equator you are traveling something more than 900 miles per hour as the earth spins on its axis. At Little America the speed is only 150 miles per hour. If you sat in an arm chair at the South Pole, you would make only one complete turn like a swivel chair in 24 hours.

Everybody Weighs More So everybody and everything on the Byrd expedition weighs more here than at the equator. The amount of increased weight between the equator and the pole itself would be only one-two hundredth per cent. A man weighing 200 pounds at the equator would weigh 201 pounds at the pole. Gold weighing one ton (2,000 pounds) at the equator would weigh 10 pounds more at the pole.

That opens an opportunity for a South Pole slicker. Some day luxury ships or planes may bring winter sports enthusiasts to the pole and the slicker could sell gold or other precious metals to unsuspecting tourists who didn't know that corrections should be made for variables in gravity and temperature and elevation. Any gold found in Antarctica wouldn't weigh quite so much by the time you got it home.

Bugle Only Bedtime Reminder With the sun shining or trying to shine 24 hours long, there's no darkness to remind you that it's bedtime. Crewmen whose quarters are dark are sent to bed by bugler's taps, but anyone with a porthole in his room gets to wondering what night time looks like. They go to bed at crazy hours and miss many meals. More than one man, after on time for the morning meal, thought it was time for movies right after lunch and wondered why the show didn't start.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 17, 1947

ANOTHER VENEZUELA?

Secretary Marshall's varied past career must have already taught him the lesson that all secretaries of state soon learn, that troubles pop up in the most unexpected quarters.

In 1893 Richard Olney of Boston, President Cleveland's new attorney general, was asked by the President to study the boundary dispute between Venezuela and British Guiana, as something serious here might develop at any time. Venezuela to Olney, as to most other Americans, was an utterly unthought-of topic. Plenty of subjects filled the headlines, but not Venezuela.

Sure enough, the United States soon protested against British encroachments on Venezuelan territory. Two years later, when Olney had become secretary of state, the rift had become so great that Cleveland sent a special message to Congress, virtually threatening war unless the British arbitrated the boundary dispute. All Venezuela was not to the British, worth war with this country, and they agreed to arbitration.

The world's trouble spots should all be pretty well known by now, but some strange perils may lurk unsuspected among them.

With General Marshall on the job at Washington, everything will be rather simple. They'll just "let George do it."

JAP ERROR

Overconfidence defeated the Japanese, says "Campaigns of the Pacific War," the new official history published by the Navy. Their early spectacular successes went to their heads, and they reached out for difficult conquests like India and Ceylon, when they should have dug in on what they had. Did not a wise writer say long ago, "Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall?"

MAN'S LAST JOB

"The people that disintegrated the atom has now the mission of integrating humanity," said Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil in a recent address. Or to express his idea in simpler and plainer terms, the nation that mastered the atom now has the job of mastering humanity itself.

This is the biggest of all human tasks, and whether mankind is really capable of it is still uncertain. It means the suppression of war and the gradual development of man into a definite, permanent unity of thought and action that will enable the race to survive and continue its progress indefinitely.

Obviously the greatest obstacle is the present imperfection of man himself, which makes it difficult for our race to work in unity as one great team. The measure of our civilization is the extent to which we can approach and maintain such unity.

Who would ever have imagined that England would turn herself into a great real estate undertaking?

BEN'S BIRTHDAY

Benjamin Franklin was a versatile guy: He brought down lightning from the sky. He founded the Saturday Evening Post. Wrote proverbs, and did more than most.

But what we best remember Ben by is not the lightning from on high; it's the virtue of saving a thrifty penny. But what can you do when you ain't got any?

In George Washington's day physicians are said to have feared that a speed of more than 15 miles an hour would be fatal as the human body could not stand the strain. At more than 25 miles per hour the chest would cave in for instance. What would they think of modern planes?

PACIFIC FOOTHOLDS

It was interesting and reassuring to see a House naval affairs committee at Washington advising the U. S. government to hang onto a long string of "stepping stone" bases in the Pacific, the other day. It was explained that such islands "if used in reverse" might be employed for improper purposes.

THE INQUISITION

It is curious that anyone in Congress should question the right of that body to probe deeply into the state of the union and into the conduct of its officials. From 1832 until the very end of 1946, the Democrats conducted such investigations, often with brutal disregard for the rights of citizens as when the Black Committee seized private papers violating the Constitution or as when the La Follette Committee slanted its findings to serve a cause. The Black Committee set the pace for subsequent investigations; yet Hugo Black is on the Supreme Court Bench. No one will ever forget how one Congressional Committee got on the front pages of newspapers by the gentle device of depositing a midget in J. P. Morgan's lap.

With all its shortcomings, its tendency to star-chamber proceedings and obiter dicta by committee chairmen who now and then do not know what they are talking about, the device of the Congressional investigation by committee is wholesome, for it makes available important data, it ferrets out crooks, it keeps the Administrative official from expanding himself into a tyrant, it cuts through the red tape of officialdom so that secrecy ceases to deceive the people.

For instance, it is generally said that this war was the most crooked in history. That may or may not be true. If it is true, we should know the facts, if it is untrue, the false talk should be laid once and for all. In the discussion concerning corruption, great names are mentioned. If these persons were not crooked, their reputations should not be fouled; if they not only wasted the substance of the people but did it for their own enrichment and the enrichment of their friends, the facts should be fully made public.

It has been said that high personages in government perpetrated income tax frauds. That is always being said. I have heard it said about one who could not possibly have done anything of the sort. But it is in the national interest that the truth should be known, whatever the truth may be.

Searching for this kind of truth by a Congressional Committee is called a "Fishing Expedition" and is severely criticized. Such a perfectionistic New Dealer as Senator Tobey of New Hampshire is an opponent of "Fishing Expeditions."

But nothing can be more useful for the people, because what the "Fishing Expedition" really accomplishes is that an inventory and an audit are taken of the United States of America. It is a safety device against the willfulness of politicians and lawyers who perform on the formula that anything is right that you can get away with. On the other hand, the people generally hold to the axiom that crime does not pay. A few innocent folks may suffer from the twists and turns of these "Fishing Expeditions," but on the whole, the country benefits.

Two situations in the recent war need clearing up, and from the standpoint of the morale of the nation, nothing can be more important:

1. The Pearl Harbor Investigation must be reopened and continued. As long as there is the slightest doubt in the minds of the American people as to the honesty of statement, the moral responsibility, the literal truth of the President of the United States, members of his Cabinet and the heads of the Army and Navy, the morale of the nation is injured. All the facts of Pearl Harbor, beginning with the pursuit of policy in 1931 up to the day of the Japanese Blitz, must be published in utter and complete frankness and with pristine honesty. No one's reputation need be saved; no one's damaged. The truth is the objective.

2. There must be absolute certainty that there was not even a shade of corruption in the conduct of the war. Parents who have lost their sons and daughters must be sure that those lives were not frittered away by irresponsible officials and military officers. Again, individuals do not count; only the truth is important.

If this Congress does nothing more than this, its services to the nation will be invaluable. Those who oppose such inquiries lay themselves open to the suspicion of an ulterior motive. (Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

YOUR AGE AND YOUR WEIGHT

In the weight tables published by some health agencies and insurance companies, allowance for age is made for increase in weight that is the weight of a man or woman 50 years of age is considered normal if they are 10 to 15 pounds heavier than they were at the age of thirty (full maturity.)

While I write frequently about weight from the standpoint of health, there are many individuals, mostly women, who are interested from the standpoint of appearance. Despite the fact that the boyish figure is often a forerunner of goiter or tuberculosis, many put appearance before health forgetting that a slender frail body is not a healthy body, as it lacks buoyancy.

"Tables in current use of 'average' weights for women show sizeable increases with advancing age. Thus between ages of 30 and 50 the average weights for short women increase by 13 to 14 pounds or more than 10 per cent, and those for tall women 15 pounds or more. Such increases are neither necessary nor desirable. They largely reflect the effect of persisting in the habit of consuming the same amount of food while physical activity decreases."

Because tuberculosis stood first as a cause of death until recently, our insurance companies and health agencies advised that up to the age of thirty to be slightly overweight was helpful in warding off tuberculosis. Now that tuberculosis is well down on the list as a cause of death, these agencies and companies state that the advantage of slight overweight in young people is passing away; in fact, overweight at any age is not desirable.

It might be well to repeat that overweight is more likely to develop serious chronic disease and do so at an earlier age than persons of lighter weight. Thus, hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure are more common among young and middle aged overweight than among underweights of the same age. We should not allow increase in weight after the age of thirty.

Overweight and Underweight

It has been well said that weight is one of the clearest methods of knowing one's health. Send today for Dr. Barton's booklet "Overweight and Underweight," enclosing 10 cents and a 3 cent stamp, to the cost of handling and mailing, to the Bell Syndicate, Inc., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

and become "stepping stones onto our continental shores."

Nobody in this country wants to keep harping on former wars, but it is sometimes necessary to point out obvious facts of life by land and sea.

It is interesting to note that the "Balinese influence" is "strong in summer styles." Never mind, gentlemen—the women know what it means.

The Doctor Can Prescribe--

—BUT YOU ARE THE ONLY ONE WHO CAN CURE YOU OF THAT DISEASE!

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Jan. 15—Breathless and bustling with good news, I bring my fellow citizens word this beautiful day that we have had the privilege and honor to provide a beautiful summer home set in a park of 2200 acres for Harold L. Ickes and the lucky girl who was won by his niggardly, miserly, cunningly crooked and his bawls these last few years. Old Mr. Ickes, who calls himself a liberal in the strictly political sense of the word, a limited man using never to be confused with extravagance in his case, is noted for his scrupulous honesty.

An Eskimo, up in Alaska, near the Arctic Circle, which was included in his jurisdiction when he was secretary of the interior, coined a phrase about him, a few days before Christmas several years ago.

"Mr. Ickes," this Eskimo said, and wrote, "is as honest as the day is long."

Having no such gift of poetic expression, myself, I resort to a homely comparison. In the Arizona desert we have a little rodent also noted for his honesty, known as the pack rat or trade rat. The pack rat, or trade rat, will pick up little trinkets, such as diamonds, rings or a jeweled watch and whisk them off to his hole in the ground, if you don't watch out, but he always leaves something in exchange, often a piece of old, dead cholla, which is a small cactus with stickers all over it and suitable for throwing away if you use it, or a rusty bottle cap which he considers to be a fair trade for that which he has caught his eye.

Well, today I went over to the Department of the Interior, which, as you may know is now under new management and, finding that Cap Krug, the new secretary, was just about to be off somewhere, like a secretary of state, I was looking for a man who was trading glares with a hand-printed oil portrait of Mr. Ickes, the biggest portrait in all the gallery of immortal ex-secretaries, and holding my own, if I do say so, when a right nice girl came along. She said, "I will bet you came down here to find out about how the Ickes have been spending their summers up at Acadia Park, a public property managed by the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior, at a very moderate rent."

"The Gestapo has been tapping my thoughts," exclaimed I, and she said, "Come and see our Mr. Oscar Chapman, the under-secretary, who is a public servant with nothing to conceal, not that you could say that Mr. Ickes ever concealed the facts, either, because if you keep, alert, trained observers of the fourth estate—"

"Oh," said I, "enough of this hero worship!"

"—Because," went on she, "if you don't ask questions, you can't expect a man like Mr. Ickes, so busy with his cares and a fair to volunteer information about every little detail. And this," he said, with a pretty flirt of his dancing curls, "is our Mr. Chapman."

I first commiserated Mr. Chapman on the great blow to the morale of the personnel of interior that President Truman struck when he accepted Mr. Ickes's resignation. But he is a game fellow, imbued with the carry-over spirit, and with a slight tremor of some emotion, but dry of eye—repeat, dry of eye—he said some trite thing that sounded like, "Oh, well, we must accept the sweet with the bitter in this life."

"State your business," Mr. Chapman said.

I stated my business and Mr. Chapman blanched but resolutely unto me did say:

That it is a matter of public business and public record that some years ago the Rockefellers and others contributed money to buy a parcel of land at Bear Harbor, Me., and gave it to the National Park Service as a public park. That a gentleman named Roman bequeathed his house and 18 acres to his country to be embraced in Acadia Park. That the Department of the Interior adopted a regulation under Mr. Ickes, which gives the secretary first claim for summer occupancy. That the house has a beautiful great living room with a large fireplace and a picture window overlooking a bluff to the bay, three bedrooms, a servant's room, dining room, kitchen and bath, and was furnished by the Interior Department at a cost of about $3,500 in 1943. That by the terms of the deed this house was to be available to "Government officials and other prominent citizens" for summer use. And that, Tommy the agent, under Mr. Ickes, determined not to be mercenary and thus to charge only a "very moderate" rent.

Mr. Chapman said the rent was $50 a month and that Mr. Ickes had put himself down for August, and, sometimes, September, for 1946, when he was no longer secretary. "This year, he qualified as a 'prominent citizen' and got the place because he had been alert enough to put his name at the head of the list. Mr. Krug, although he was now secretary, may not have heard about the house and his privileged priority but he knows now and even though he shouldn't pull his rank and privilege, the Ickes family won't be there in 1947. For one reason, Mr. Krug is fixing to raise the rent to a fair competitive basis and Senator Ralph G. Brewster, of Maine, says that would be $1,000 a season. As though any other reason were needed, Mr. Ickes didn't file his application for 1947 early enough and others have beaten him to it.

Mr. Chapman said, further, that Tommy Corcoran, another great liberal, also in the political sense, known in the early and corny Roosevelt humor as Tommy the Cork, had the place for week-ends one year and that the Chapmans, themselves, had it for a couple of weeks in July, 1946. For that reason, he knew what the rent was. Not many citizens know about the house and the rent.

Unlike some contemptibles who exploit their positions to get something for nothing, Mr. Ickes always insists on paying at least a very moderate amount for everything he gets from the government. He adhered to that policy, though it may have cut an old miser to the heart, when, on two occasions, he put himself away in the Naval Hospital for treatment, services, room and board at $250 a day, because the civilian hospitals were not very good and much more expensive. (Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Today in Washington

Pressure Is Seen in Congress to Soften or Forget Demand to Repeal Labor Laws

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 17—Already for years the typical labor union answer to this has been to say that employers hired "thugs." But the Wagner Law now reaches employers who try that sort of tactics, and today only the labor unions employ the goons and strong-arm men. Picketing should be limited to employees actually on strike. The Congress, when the Wagner Act was passed in 1935, was importuned to forbid "coercion from any source" but the union lobby was successful in defeating such an amendment when it was proposed by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat.

Those who say no new laws are necessary are forgetting that the files of newspaper offices are thousands of action photographs taken on the strike front, showing mass picketing actually interfering with the right of the citizen to work. Clearly, to refrain from writing a law on mass picketing and to say "laws will not cure the situation" is equivalent to saying that the laws against murder and robbery are equally valueless in America.

If laws are superfluous, the American industry and business should be asking for the repeal of the anti-trust laws, too, because surely if monopolies aren't prevented by law and the anti-trust statutes have become superfluous, there can be no objection to putting business executives on the same parity with labor unions.

The answer, of course, is not to repeal the anti-trust laws at all but to extend their authority to cover those labor unions which engage in monopolistic practices and interfere with commerce by restraints both physical and economic.

To grant a national labor union a monopoly while denying monopolies to corporations is transparently uneven. The subject can be reached only by legislation.

Also it might be asked where the nation would be today if the coal strike of last month had not been broken by the use of the Smith-Connally Law which gave the government seizure rights and enabled it to apply for an injunction. To say laws are unnecessary to govern labor relations is to invite another paralysis of the economic system by unrestrained labor union executives. Clearly an amendment is necessary to the Norris-LaGuardia Law to prevent the government the specific right to apply for injunctions when the national welfare is threatened.

Yet, despite the obvious need for more law and revision of old laws, the propaganda being fired at Congress naively claims that labor troubles will never be cured by laws. The propaganda boldly ignores the realities of present-day labor strife in America.

Ar Century's Turn

By IL L. VAN DEUSEN

The play "The Old Vermont Farm," was presented by professional and amateur talent on July 6, 1908, in O'Reilly's Grove, in the rear of the Kingston City Library. The proceeds were for the benefit of the library.

It had been planned to present the play on the Fourth of July of that year, but rain caused the presentation to be postponed to July 6.

The cast was composed of a number of professionals who were spending the summer in Kingston, together with local amateur talent.

Among those appearing in the play were J. Eugene Browning, Martin Hayden, G. S. Brodick, Louis Hasbrouck, Edgar Chandler Gause, Clark Hubbard, George F. Kuehn, Walter Monaghan, Nell Sahler, Mrs. Olivia Sanger Hall, Villa F. Page, Mrs. J. Eugene Browning, Mrs. George F. Chandler, Miss T. Kate Brown and Anna Bunting.

Those taking the part of college boys were Severn Schoonmaker, G. Wallace Colville, Charles B. Finch, Conelius Treadwell, John Griffiths, Thomas J. Cusack, Jr., Martin D. F. Smith, Allen Smith, Philip DeGarmo, Everett Fessenden and Newton J. Fessenden.

The college girls were Jane Van Eten, Frances Preston, Beva Hardenbergh, Hazel Osterhoudt, Elizabeth Thompson, Elizabeth Carl, Isabel Ellis, Elizabeth Winne, Elizabeth Tobey and Augusta Kaufman.

The open air play drew a large audience and a substantial amount of money was raised for the library.

Two well known Kingston men who died in August, 1908, were Edgar Mullen, tobaccoist, and Charles B. Safford, Wall street lawyer.

Mr. Mullen founded the Mullen tobacco plant on North Front street, and at his death in his death in his home on Washington avenue on August 3, the business was carried on by the Mullen family.

Older readers will recall the old factory uptown. Mullen's was in great demand in Kingston and Ulster county, both for smoking and chewing. The large yellow package in which the tobacco was wrapped was to be found on the counter of every tobacco store in the city.

So popular was the brand among the Hudson river boatmen that some of the stores in New York city along the water front, always carried large supplies of Mullen's favorite.

In the years of not so long ago the tobacco was dubbed "Higginsville Hay," the pride of Higginsville and various other nicknames. Older readers will recall that it was one of the most popular brands of tobacco sold.

Mr. Safford who died suddenly on August 30, while visiting relatives in Syracuse, was 78 years old at the time of his death. He was one of the best known jewelers in this section of the state, and had been in business continuously since 1856.

He learned the jeweler's business in New York city, and came to Kingston in 1856, engaging in business on July 1 of that year, forming the firm of Safford & Kail, which was dissolved two years later.

Mr. Safford continued the business alone until 1872 when he entered into partnership with Charles F. Carter, under the firm name of Safford & Carter.

The firm was dissolved on July 1, 1877, and the business was carried on alone by Mr. Safford until his death.

He was a member of the Kingston Lodge of Masons, and for years was an active member of St. James Methodist Church.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

BABSON WARNS MANAGEMENT

Babson Park, Fla., Jan. 17—With a Republican Congress and the public trend toward conservatism, industry will be getting back again a measure of its beloved freedom of enterprise and freedom from controls at a very difficult time. We are ending a period of rising prices. Following it a law of action and reaction, we are heading toward a period of declining prices.

Many inventories are already very high, production is catching up, and the public is showing a marked tendency to pick and choose in buying or to desert altogether. As a result, a previous article, discussing fish prices, we are seeing the beginning of a buyers' market. As this continues, businesses are apt to be left with inventories much reduced in value.

Strikes have so retarded normal production in the nation that the conversion of problems has been multiplied. Constant wage-increases demands from labor unions are causing still higher production costs and higher prices. Portal-to-portal retroactive pay suits from some of the greedier unions are further threats to business stability. These are some of the difficulties management is facing today.

Can Business Accept Challenge?

Now, if business is again to be given free initiative, and at least a fair opportunity to meet competition as labor has since 1932, can a plan be devised that will be profitable to U. S. business and also cause labor to produce at a maximum of efficiency? Management will not and cannot operate without profits. But, given freedom to make profits, will management be able to unite radical and conservative elements in support of an honest day's work for an honest day's pay? This requires giving an opportunity to get ahead for those whose efficiency and ability have earned that privilege.

Can industry handle unemployment wisely if and when it comes or can it provide eventually for continuous employment? If not, can it provide adequate workable wage guarantees which will give the worker a reasonable sense of security? A government survey on guaranteed annual wages has revealed that fewer than 75,000 workers have thus far come under any sort of guaranteed wage plan in the United States, whereas there are said to be around 200 such plans in existence. This is because most employers claim that no one of those plans is as yet really practicable. An example of how a reasonably expensive plan can be in spite of the good will it earns from employees, was seen at Hornell packing houses during 1946.

Republicans Beware!

Horticulturists Ask More Sugar for Use With Crops

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—The New York State Horticultural Society seeks an increase in the nation's sugar supply "for proper utilization of the 1947 fruit crops."

Reporting that New York's growers lost "millions of dollars" last year because of the sugar shortage, the society adopted a resolution last night requesting U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson to "use all possible means" to boost the sugar supply.

The group elected Carl G. Wooster of Union Hill, president; Donald I. Green of Clary, vice president; and Willis Phillips of Burlington, director.

Re-elected directors were Gerow Schoemaker of Wallkill, A. W. Deems of Albany, and Robert R. Livingston of Germantown.

The society's agricultural economist, estimated from party prices which he said made no allowances for increases and decreases in reduction costs.

He said the cost of producing a bushel of apples had risen 27 cents since 1910-14 (the parity period), while the cost of producing a bushel of corn had dropped 22 cents.

Other adopted resolutions: Requested the New York City Port Authority to replace the Washington street market which was described as "antiquated."

Urged congress to appropriate funds for agricultural research in marketing.

Recommended that the State College of Agriculture at Cornell University and the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva expand research on machinery and material for spray dusting.

Empowered the board of directors to take necessary action to obtain more nitrogen fertilizer for the fruit industry.

Appeals Court Reverses Ruling on Lobell Bail

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has reversed an Appellate Division ruling that upheld bail of $250,000 for Julius Lobell, alias Jimmy Collins, a defendant in the $780,000 Mergenthaler Linotype embezzlement case in Brooklyn.

The state's highest tribunal returned the case to the Appellate Division, First Department, yesterday for "proceedings not inconsistent" with its decision.

The bail for Lobell, one of four persons indicted on 470 counts charging thefts and forgeries, was set in Kings County Court.

The Court of Appeals said there was no record to indicate that Lobell intended to flee the court's jurisdiction and held it could "see no support" for the bail set.

Bingo Would Be Legalized in State, If Bills Succeed

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16 (AP)—Legislation to legalize bingo and enable the state to levy a tax on the game was proposed today.

Senator James J. Crawford, New York Democrat, and Assemblyman George Archinal, Queens Republican, introduced bills that would require an annual $25 operating license and a 10 percent player tax.

The measures would empower the secretary of state to fix minimum and maximum admission fees and the charge made for each card issued. The 10 percent tax would be levied on either the admission fee or card price.

Licenses would be limited to bona fide organizations at least five years old.

The bills would prohibit bingo on Sunday and after midnight, limit games to a maximum of four hours daily and close them to persons under 18.

Violation would be a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum penalty of a $250 fine and 60 days in jail.

Stanton Runaways Are Picked Up by Police

Robert Saunk, 13, and Ronald D. Layne, 15, reported missing from Stanton Military Academy, Stanton, Va., were picked up by Kingston police as they alighted from a passenger train at the West Shore station, Thursday at 6 p. m.

Police said the boys told them they drowned on military academy life and left the institution to visit friends at Big Indian in the Catskills. The two were held pending instructions from school authorities.

Install Officers Of Kiwanis Club

Lieut. Governor Byrnes of Newburgh Welcomed by Service Club

Kingston Kiwanis Club at their regular weekly luncheon on Thursday welcomed Lieut. Governor Leo Byrnes of Newburgh, who installed the officers for the ensuing year.

Following the singing of popular songs under the leadership of Paul Zucca, Clarence Dunn, outgoing president, turned over the gavel and president's pin to Herbert DeKay. The club then honored the members who had perfect attendance records for periods ranging from one year to 11 years as follows:

One year, C. Carter, V. Jarrold, H. DeKay, C. Dunn, E. Huben, H. Rigby; two years, W. Codwile; three years, H. Pangburn; four years, J. Gifford, W. Kidd, C. Snyder, F. Van Deusen; five years, H. St. John, A. Baker, J. Deegan, H. Finsign; 11 years, G. Matthews; 14 years, J. Stout; 15 years, W. B. Byrnes; 17 years, Paul Zucca; 21 years, F. Chidsey.

In presenting the past president's pin to outgoing President Clarence Dunn, Past Lieut. Governor Byrnes congratulated Mr. Dunn on the splendid record of the club during 1946 with emphasis on the Kiwanis motto, "The 25th anniversary party and the 90 club visitations made by members of the Kingston group."

Lieut. Governor Byrnes installed officers for the year 1947 as follows: President, Herbert DeKay; trustees, Lloyd LeFever and E. L. Van Deusen; secretary, Van Deusen; treasurer, Fred L. Van Deusen; past president, Clarence Dunn.

Due to illness, Vice-President Bill Lechive and Trustee R. Y. Rigall were not able to be present. The past lieut. governor's pin was presented to E. L. Van Deusen by Lieut. Governor Byrnes, who paid tribute to the great work done during 1946.

Ray Garraghan, chairman of the Kiwanis March of Dimes group, passed out folders to the group and sought the cooperation of all present in the 1947 campaign.

The lieut. governor was accompanied on his official visit by three past presidents and a large number of the members of the Newburgh club.

Millens Firm Is Favored in Court By Justice Bergan

In a decision just handed down, Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergan granted a motion for summary judgment in favor of Max Millens and others, doing business as B. Millen & Sons, against Sterling O. Baker and Claire Baker. The motion was argued at the Kingston special term on January 3.

The action involves a contract entered into by the Millens firm and Baker on December 29, 1944. By the terms of the contract, Baker sold all of the steel and iron parts of the Barnhart Brewery property, which he had undertaken to dismantle. The plaintiffs advanced some of the money required for the demolition work and were to be repaid by the delivery of metals at stipulated prices.

Subsequently, Baker commenced work of demolishing the brewery but after a short time discontinued the work. Action was then begun in Supreme Court on behalf of the Millens firm to recover damages for the breach of contract and for the balance of the money which had been loaned to Baker.

An application was made by Abraham Streifer, attorney for plaintiffs, for summary judgment, on the ground that there was no substantial defense to the plaintiff's claim. He argued that in view of the flimsy nature of the opposition to the action, judgment should be granted without the delay and expense incident to a trial by jury.

This application has now been granted by the Court. A cross motion by defendants for leave to amend their answer has been denied.

Plaintiffs, B. Millens & Sons, were represented by Abraham Streifer. Defendants, Sterling O. Baker and Claire Baker, were represented by Floyd W. Powell and James C. Plunkett.

Son Administrator Of Stankevich Estate

New York, Jan. 17 (Special)—Letters of administration in the estate of the late Joseph Stankevich of New York and Wawarog were issued Thursday in Surrogate's Court here to his son, George Stanley of 20 Seaman avenue, this city. Stankevich died last October 4th as a result of injuries sustained in a collision between a truck and a bus in which he was a passenger. He left no will.

Also listed as beneficiaries in the petition approved today by Surrogate James A. DeChanty was the widow, Mrs. Clara Stankevich of New York and Wawarog, and a daughter, Mrs. Sophie S. Grubman of Fresno, Cal. The summer residence at Wawarog, estimated to be worth $10,000, is the sole asset of Stankevich's estate, according to the petition. He owned the property jointly with his wife.

An action is pending on behalf of the estate against the Hudson Transit Corporation, operator of the bus in which the decedent met his death.

Brewster Promises Exposes Exceeding Garsson Case

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Chairman Brewster (R-Me.) promised his Senate colleagues today "sensational new exposes" if they vote added life for his special war investigating committee.

As the chamber prepared for its third day of debate on the hotly disputed issue, Brewster told reporters his group already has accumulated "90 per cent of the material" that would make its previous disclosures look like "small potatoes."

And in addition to digging deeper into cases of suspected war profiteering, Brewster declared that if and when the extension is granted he plans to press the White House for:

1. All details on how the late President Roosevelt and his successor, President Truman, spent some $648,000,000 of secret funds granted them to carry on the war.

2. Disclosure of a "secret mobilization report" which Brewster said Mr. Truman sought when he was chairman of the same committee but was refused by President Roosevelt.

Brewster and other Republican leaders voiced confidence that they had more than enough votes to continue the war investigating group and also set up a new special small business committee. Democrats have been almost solidly against both special groups on the contention that the Congressional Reorganization Act increased the reduced number of regular committees to take over the work of all special groups.

Expected Approval
Republican Leader White (Me.) told a reporter, however, he had little doubt that both resolutions would be approved and added his hope that a vote could be had today.

Brewster conceded that other committees might be able to take care of some of the war investigations but said this would cause much delay.

"We want to look over the big fellows, the little fellows and many dummy corporations," Brewster said, adding:

"You can be sure that the things to come will make the Garsson and similar exposes seem unimportant."

His reference was to the months-long committee hearings last year into the multi-million dollar Garsson munitions combine, whose wartime activities since have been the subject of a lengthy Federal Grand Jury investigation.

Discussing his plans to ask Mr. Truman for additional matter for the committee, Brewster said the special wartime funds granted the president "quite properly come within the category of war expenditures."

These were granted by Congress without any strings attached, he said, and should be gone over at length "unless public disclosure might cause international embarrassment."

Amplifying this, Brewster said it might have been necessary to make certain wartime expenditures with or in other nations that should not be aired now.

Prepared by Stettinius
The senator said the "secret mobilization report" was prepared by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., before this country's entry into the war when the steel executive was acting as a defense adviser to President Roosevelt. Stettinius later became secretary of state.

Brewster recalled that Mr. Truman as chairman of the war investigating group publicly reported that failure to follow original mobilization plans had caused a "delay of from a year to 18 months" in the prosecution of the war.

The present chairman added, however, that he did not know whether Mr. Truman would be willing now to disclose the report which he had sought as a senator.

Pierson Charged With Rape Crime

Marine Corporal Is Faced With Charges; Denies He Is Guilty

Peiping, Jan. 17 (AP)—Marine Cpl. William Gailther Pierson today pleaded innocent to charges of raping a Chinese girl student, Shen Chung—an incident that Chinese university students in several cities used as the springboard for anti-American demonstrations two weeks ago.

Pierson pleaded innocent, at the opening of his court martial, to these four charges: Rape, assault with intent to rape, conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline, and scandalous conduct tending to the destruction of good morals.

He pleaded nolo contendere (no defense) to a fifth charge, fornication. The court said that plea was tantamount to an admission of guilt.

Pierson's name had not been announced until today. The Marine Corps said he served with a weapons company, First Marine Division, reinforced, at Peiping, but declined to give his home town.

The girl was not in court this morning. Court attaches said she would testify, probably tomorrow. Attaches said Pierson will not testify.

Four Chinese soldiers and two policemen testified they saw Pierson having relations with the girl Christmas Eve on a polo field in the center of the Peiping business district. They could not get closer than 20 feet because another Marine "chased us away."

The second marine, unidentified, is held for court martial.

Judge advocate at the trial is Lt. Col. Paul A. Fitzgerald, 200 W. Merrick Rd., Fieport, N. Y.

Lester W. Herzog Quits U. S. Post

O.P.A. Administrator Has Served 12 Years

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—Lester W. Herzog is out of federal office after more than 12 years. Herzog retired as O.P.A. administrator in the 16-county Albany area yesterday. He had held the post since 1933. He supervised upstate relief work under the Works Progress Administration in the early days of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

Herzog will resume his coal business here.

Names of Winners In TB Project Are Announced Today

The Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association has announced that three Ulster county high school students have won honors in the recent School Press Project which was sponsored jointly by the National Tuberculosis Association and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association during the 1946 Christmas seal sale.

Through their school papers, a number of county students participated in this nationwide educational campaign to further the control of tuberculosis. The entries from the school papers selected by the judges of the tuberculosis association were as follows:

A Coke for a Late by Thelma Kilmberg, appearing in The Quill of Ellenville High School.

A Cuckoo by Anna Mathiesen in NEPA Hi-Lites of New Paltz High.

Receiving honorable mention was Betty Kiefer and Sally Ann Sherman of M. M. Chatter and Ulster High, and Shirley Ann Stein of NEPA Hi-Lites, New Paltz.

Why Nations Should Work Together for Tuberculosis Control and How Christmas Seals Are Used to Improve the Health of My Community was given The articles selected have now been forwarded to a state-wide committee which in turn will select the best to be forwarded to the National Association. All entries submitted to the national will be reviewed by a committee of nationally known journalists.

This is the second year that students have been offered a chance to help solve one of the world's most serious health problems. "said Miss Katharine M. Murphy, R.N., executive secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

"Students are being offered this year a field for the discussion of the disease because young people today are coming more and more to realize how inter-dependent nations are. We want them to realize that a communicable disease may be spread, not only from city to city and state to state, but from nation to nation and that the safety of all of us depends on controlling tuberculosis throughout the world.

Veterans Administration board of appeals now is disposing of an average of 2,000 appeals from V A rulings monthly.

Health for All

Surgical Treatment in TB
Surgical treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis is not intended to replace the tested methods of bed rest in a sanatorium or hospital. However, among patients who need more than bed rest, especially those in whom lung cavities have developed, additional rest and relaxation must be given the lungs by surgical means. The diseased lung is given a better chance to heal when its work of breathing is diminished and its diseased area partly or completely collapsed.

One of the simplest operations to provide additional rest for the lung is phrenic nerve paralysis. The phrenic nerve begins in the neck and runs the length of the chest to the diaphragm, the powerful muscle which moves up and down with each breath, causing considerable motion and stretching of the lung. A small incision is made in the neck and the nerve is crushed, paralyzing it for about six months. When permanent paralysis is desired, the nerve is cut.

The volume of the lung is in this way reduced about 20 percent and the action on that side of the diaphragm is limited or stopped. However, this does not cause as much rest as other collapse procedures and is used frequently in conjunction with other treatments.

The most widely used of all surgical collapse is therapeutic pneumothorax, in which air is introduced outside and around the lung, causing it to collapse. A successful pneumothorax has for its purpose collapse of that part of the lung in which the cavity is located. This will allow for cavity closure and conversion of the sputum from positive to negative, so that tubercle bacilli are no longer expectorated.

The pneumothorax is sometimes impossible or dangerous because of adhesions between the inner and outer walls of the membrane covering the lung, called the pleura. Occasionally the two layers of pleura are so completely stuck that no space remains for the air and the operation is unsuccessful.

successful. Sometimes a partial collapse is obtained and the adhesions become narrow bands. Then an intrapleural pneumonolysis is done. In this operation the adhesions are severed so that, as the lung collapses, the cavity closes and the sputum becomes negative.

Thoracoplasty is a more serious operation which will frequently arrest the disease when other methods have failed. The ribs, or sections of ribs, over the diseased area are removed, usually in two or more stages. This permits the soft tissues of the chest wall to collapse inward. This will close the majority of lung cavities permanently.

These and other modern surgical treatments of tuberculosis, in conjunction with bed rest, save many lives and permit many patients to return to useful occupations, if they order their lives carefully.

In the next article, care of the teeth will be discussed.

Annual Report of Home for Aged in Ulster County

Following is the annual report of the Board of Managers of the Home for the Aged in Ulster county for the year 1946:

Madam President, and Members of the Board of Managers of the Home for the Aged in Ulster county:

It gives me pleasure to submit the following report of the Home for the year 1946.

We have held nine meetings during the year with an average attendance of fifteen.

Five of our members attended every meeting, and three missed only one meeting.

We have lost by death three of our guests, and have admitted one married couple and one single person, so that we now have three married couples and twenty-eight single people.

Twelve new applications were received during the year, and we have a waiting list of thirty-three.

Mrs. Nicholas Hogeboom was elected a member of the active board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Hermon A. Kelley.

We have added six new members to our associate list.

We celebrated the Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Styles with a fitting party in June.

The Home has been visited each month by one or more members of the board.

All associate members were notified by post card of our annual donation day, the receipts of which were most gratifying.

We also have a good cheer fund, which provides extra niceties for our guests.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Clyde Wenderly, gave an excellent report of our finances in spite of the rise in price of all commodities.

The ministerial association has provided religious meetings during the year.

The different churches and various other groups provide entertainment when possible, for which we are most grateful.

Very few expenses in the line of household equipment have been required during the past year. Several chairs have been repaired, and new dishes have replaced the broken ones, also two new rugs were purchased.

Our Matron furnishes a list of donations each month, which is read at our meetings, and then published in the press.

We are grateful to the press for this and all other items, which they publish on request.

During this cold weather, and with icy walks, our people are more closely confined to the home, and thus would appreciate more in the line of entertainment and amusement.

Respectfully Submitted, NELLIE P. SNYDER, Sec'y

"Rough Boy" Owns Up

Forty years ago, when Allyn Bevan, then nine, was swinging with her brother in the garden of their home in Marylebone, England, she fell on her head. In his will, recently published, Arthur H. Bevan left $1,000 to his sister, saying: "It pleases me to give you this as a thank offering for your lucky escape when we were swinging in our childhood. I was entirely to blame, just a rough boy."

REDS AND C.I.O. DEMANDS

The C.I.O. has prejudiced its case for another round of pay increases by adopting a 1947 platform which rather too clearly resembles that adopted by the Communist Party.

Employers, "working men," the public and Congressmen are apt to be far less patient about excessive pay demand if they see the shadow of Moscow agents behind the curtain—because Communist aims are not expected to be for the good of anybody's soul or pocketbook.

The program adopted by the National Committee of the Communist Party of America December 5, 1946, if put over on America, might well bring on the great "bust" the Marxists keep harping on, and the "bust" might produce joblessness and hunger and angry people—ripe for a radical change in our economic and governmental systems.

The C.I.O. program was announced by Marshall Field's "thing" FM, largest of New York's Red dailies, eleven days after the Communists adopted their program behind closed doors. FM's story quoted C.I.O. boss, Phil Murray, observe the points of similarity between:

Alarm

When the pro-Soviets want to frighten business men and make them retrench and thus cause the tall spin they say what Phil Murray harped on in adjoining column:

The C.I.O.: "The country faces an unemployment roll of 19,000,000 if production is allowed to fall back to 1940 levels."

Wages

The Communists called for a 30-hour week without reducing wages and for a 75-cent hourly minimum wage. They also wanted an annual wage established in 1947.

The C.I.O. called for higher wages without increased prices, a 75-cent hourly minimum, and some of its spokesmen have been echoing the Red demand for the annual wage.

Labor Laws

The Communists demanded repeal of the Smith-Connally Act, enforcement of the Wagner Act and the Norris-LaGuardia Act, cried "Stop government strike breaking by injunctions or any other means," and condemned any efforts to pass "anti-labor" laws.

The C.I.O. called for "strengthened collective bargaining machinery" but Phil Murray's attack on "monopoly interests" (using the usual Communist terminology) for trying to get labor laws changed indicated that he wanted about the same kind of "collective bargaining" the Marxists demanded.

Taxes

The Reds: "Adopt a people's tax program to protect labor, the farmers, small property owners and independent businessmen. Maintain and increase tax rates on all incomes in the higher brackets. Exempt from individual income taxes all married persons receiving less than $3,000 a year and all single persons receiving less than $2,000 a year. Abolish the withholding tax and sales taxes. Restore the excess profits tax. Raise the tax on capital gains. End all carryback and carry forward tax provision for the wealthy and the big corporations."

The C.I.O.: "Slap special taxes on the loot of postwar profiteers and speculators," continue corporation normal and surtax rates with provisions for relief of small business enterprise; maintain levies on undistributed profits; reduce income tax rates for lowest taxable groups; eliminate tax law loopholes and excises, but out all forms of sales taxes."

F.E.P.C.

The Reds: "Enact a federal Fair Employment Practices act; outlaw anti-Semitism; prohibit the KKK, American Action, Inc., abolish the Un-American Dies-Rankin-Parnell Thomas committee."

The C.I.O.: "Enact a national Fair Employment Practices law."

Housing

The Reds: "Five-year federal housing program to build 3,000,000 new dwellings a year with rents or mortgage payments below $50 monthly, and with top priority to veterans and low-income groups, especially for the negro people. Maintain rent controls without any upward adjustment. Three-year moratorium on evictions from city dwellings and farms."

The C.I.O.: "Maintain rent control and protection against eviction. Restore veterans emergency housing program; enact Wagner-Ellender-Taft long range housing bill."

Profiteers

The Reds: "Investigate and prosecute the wealthy, the big monopoly war profiteers especially in steel, munitions, chemicals, fuels, food, automotive and transport industries."

The C.I.O.: "Heavy taxes on postwar profiteers; re-examine the anti-trust program to curb monopoly and monopolistic practices." Both the Communists and the C.I.O. called for extension and broadening of socialized medicine and of the social security system. Both planned to "sweet-talk" the farmer by advocating government subsidies and special privileges to farmers.

That the Marxists are shaping outright or substantially influencing the program of the C.I.O. was exposed long ago by the Dies Committee and the California Fact-Finding Committee.

At the C.I.O. annual bosses meeting, many a reader will recall, Phil Murray's kicking of the Reds was about as fierce as for Tito to reprimand Stalin. Nobody was kicked out or even singled out for the pointing finger. And if some of the Communists themselves said "naughty, naughty" about Communism, that too is part of the new Party program to get back underground and hide.

Treasure Takes Trip

The fabulous crown of Montezuma, made of precious stones and feathers of the Quetzal bird and valued at millions of dollars, is about to leave its resting place in the Ethnological Museum at Vienna, Austria, to go to Switzerland. Heavily guarded, the crown will travel to be displayed at an ethnological exhibition. It was brought back from Mexico by Fernando Cortez after he had subdued the Aztecs in 1520, and came into the possession of the Hapsburgs through Emperor Charles V.

Poultry, Cattle Laboratory Will Open February 4

The Kingston Veterinary Laboratory, instituted to serve dairy and poultrymen of this area, will hold open house at its location, 88 Prince Street, north of the Central Post Office, Tuesday, February 4 from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

An invitation is extended to the public to visit the laboratory, a branch of the New York State Veterinary College at Cornell, on the official opening date.

The Kingston laboratory will function in the Hudson river area, aiding in the statewide cattle mastoiditis control program and to give diagnosis of poultry diseases.

A full explanation of the program to be carried on through the local office and demonstration of facilities at the laboratory will be given to poultrymen and dairymen who attend the open house event on February 4.

Prior to establishment of the local laboratory in the Prince Street building, constructed purposely to carry on the farm aid, dairymen and poultrymen had to depend for service on the Veterinarian College at Ithaca or through a regional laboratory at Farmingdale, L. I.

At the Kingston lab farmers of this area will get quicker service from Dr. E. W. Tucker, field veterinarian in mastoiditis control have charge of poultry diagnosis, and Dr. C. I. Angstrom who is to work.

The New York Telephone Co. reports progress in 1946 and the outlook for 1947

A statement by Carl Whitmore, President

THOUGH 1946 was a year of shortages and difficulties, it was a year of accomplishment, too. Here is what our telephone workers, using unusual ingenuity and effort, were able to do to bring more telephone service to more people, in spite of all obstacles:

370,000 NEW TELEPHONES WERE ADDED

This is more than in any previous two years in our history. However, new applications were received even faster than we were able to fill orders, and in spite of record achievements, we still have a waiting list of 436,000.

3,000,000 MORE CALLS A DAY WERE HANDLED

—bringing the daily average up to 18,500,000. Though there continued to be occasional delays during the busiest periods of the day, we are glad to say that most calls went through without difficulty.

$94,000,000 SPENT TO EXPAND AND IMPROVE SERVICE

Material shortages prevented us from spending more. The new switchboards, cables and other equipment that we were able to obtain were rushed into service as rapidly as they could be installed.

12,400 NEW TELEPHONE WORKERS WERE ADDED

to swell our ranks to a total of 61,000.

During the past year we have been greatly heartened by the understanding and cooperation of the public. We appreciate particularly the patience of the many thousands of applicants who are waiting for service; their orders continue to be a matter of first importance to us. We are grateful, too, for the wide response to our requests for help in spreading the use of telephone facilities for the benefit of all.

THE OUTLOOK FOR 1947

As we go into 1947 the picture is one of intense activity. Our manufacturing organization has expanded its facilities and manpower far beyond any previous levels. In addition, hundreds of sub-contractors are lending a hand on the production job. The manufacture of complicated telephone equipment is in full swing, and we plan to spend $140,000,000 for its purchase and installation, considerably more than we have spent in any other one-year period.

We look forward to adding more central office switchboards, cables and telephones at a constantly increasing rate. With your cooperation and the help of all our telephone people, we shall make great strides in 1947 toward our basic objectives of giving everyone telephone service when he wants it and in making the speed and quality of that service better than ever.

Murray's Denial In Electrocutation Case Is Affirmed

Order in Special Term
Stops Central Hudson
From Bringing in Party Defendants

The Appellate Division, Third Department, has affirmed the order of the special term granted by Justice Murray denying the application of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation to bring in as party defendants, Chester A. Miller and Florian Tischhauser in the Supreme Court action instituted by Union Mutual Insurance Company against the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation in Ulster County.

This action arises from the death of Raymond J. Glass who was electrocuted while doing certain electrical work on the Tishhauser Estate formerly the Dimmock property near Baiton. At the time of his death, he was employed by Chester A. Miller of Kingston. The plaintiff has claimed that the electric corporation negligently installed and maintained certain wiring and electric equipment which resulted in the death of the decedent. Justice Murray, in the special term, ordered the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation to appear in the Appellate Division, in affirming the special term the Court said:

"The grounds of negligence in the cross complaint are divergent from the grounds of negligence in the complaint. To implicate the defendant in the cross complaint would result in confusion and seriously complicate the trial. It would compel plaintiff to meet an issue which it does not raise in its pleading."

"Order affirmed, with ten dollars costs and disbursements. Arthur H. Lewis, Esq., and Edwin J. Fagan, Esq., appeared for the plaintiff, Union Mutual Insurance Company and N. LeVan Haver, and John J. Egan, for the defendant, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation."

Realtors to Meet

Realtors from all parts of the county will attend the annual dinner meeting of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Tuesday, January 21, at 6 o'clock. Prominent speakers of the state realtors association will be guests. Election of officers will be held in a short business meeting preceding the dinner.

Golden Lewis, 60, Dies in Rosendale; Mayor Since '32

Golden Lewis, 60, mayor of Rosendale since 1932, succumbed to a heart attack while supervising a project about 4:30 Thursday afternoon in Rosendale. Mr. Lewis, who had been in ill health for some time, was inspecting repairs to a water main project in the village, when stricken with a heart attack. Workers immediately summoned Dr. Leander Rymph, who had been on duty for the first time in several days. Mr. Lewis was dead when the doctor arrived.

Before locating in Rosendale, Mr. Lewis was employed as a toolmaker in Poughkeepsie. He took an active interest in politics and was elected to the post of mayor in 1932. He has held the office continuously since then. Before assuming the office of mayor, he was taught in the machine shop of Kingston High School.

Mr. Lewis was a native of Olive City, N. Y., the old site of Ashokan Reservoir. He was the son of the late Jeremiah and Mary Dingle Lewis.

Fraternally he was a member of Masonic Lodge No. 265 of Poughkeepsie. He was a member of the Rosendale Reformed Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Minnie F. Elting; one sister, Mrs. Minnie Connors of Walden; three brothers, Wallace and Victor of High Falls; and Emory Lewis of Rosendale.

Funeral services will be held from the Mayan Funeral Home, Rosendale, Monday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Rosendale Plains cemetery. Friends may view the body at any time.

Excise Bill Takes Priority in Congress

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Legislation to retain the high wartime excise taxes indefinitely took top billing today as the House ways and means committee gathered for its first session of the 80th Congress.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) said the committee, with Republicans in charge of tax legislation for the first time in 15 years, might approve quickly the measure by Rep. Grant (R-Ill.) to head off an automatic July 1 rollback of the levies on liquor, furs, jewelry, amusement tickets and many other goods and services.

The legislation—House bill No. 1340—was given priority over Knutson's own House bill No. 1 proposing a 20 percent cut in personal income taxes this year.

have no more right to be governor than I have."

Arnall retorted "Well, let's see." Then, turning to the press, and speaking into a radio microphone, Arnall said "To the people of Georgia—as governor of Georgia, I have been denied access to the State Capitol building."

Dykes shouted "That's a lie." Arnall continued: "... today, denied access to my office in the rotunda of the Capitol. In order not to discredit the people of Georgia and to create disturbance, I'm moving to 1407 Candler building (in downtown Atlanta) there to function as chief executive."

"I am sure the courts will uphold me as legal governor and not the forces of anarchy."

He was interrupted repeatedly by cheers from the surrounding crowd.

Speaking again over the din, he continued: "Accordingly, I shall ask my secretarial staff to meet me at 1407 Candler building to function until the courts remove the pretension who by force and storm troops have occupied the Capitol in a coup d'etat."

Bill Would Permit Five Added Levies For Cities, Villages

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—New York cities and villages would be empowered to levy five additional types of local taxes under a bill being drafted by the State Conference of Mayors for early submission to the legislature.

The conference's advisory committee agreed unanimously yesterday to ask the legislature to grant localities authority to impose wage and payroll, miscellaneous excise, capitation (head) and electric power kilowatt hour taxes and sur-charges on state collected taxes.

Two reasons prompted the decision. The need of many municipalities for new sources of revenue to augment their levies on real estate, and the expressed determination of Governor Dewey not to grant additional state aid.

Po'keepsie Youth, Branded as Nazi, Dead in Brooklyn

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—An 18-year-old college student, with a swastika and the word "Nazi" carved in his chest by a sharp pin or small knife, was found beaten on a Brooklyn sidewalk today and died an hour later without regaining consciousness.

The victim was Anthony Charles Trabasso of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a student at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn. Police theorized he died of a fractured skull, and Patrick Kenny, deputy chief inspector, said authorities were working on the theory that the student may have been the victim of a fraternity hazing.

The letters and design were cut so large that they covered most of the victim's chest. The letters in the word "Nazi" were five inches long and the swastika, was four inches high. It was cut on the skin just below the neck. The letter "A" also had been cut into the chest.

Toxoid, Vaccine Clinic

The funeral of Michael J. Broder was held Wednesday morning from his late residence, 95 East Chester street, at 9 o'clock and at St. Mary's Church at 9:30, where a high Mass of requiem was offered by the Very Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, P.R., V.F., with the Rev. Francis Molony in the chancel. Responses to the Mass were by the children's choir under the direction of Theodore Riccobono, organist. The soloist, John Long, sang during the requiem Ave Maria and as the remains were being borne from the church, Ave Verum. The requiem was attended by many friends of the deceased. During the days the remains reposed in the home hundreds called to pay their last respects and offer condolence and sympathy to the family. The casket was surrounded with beautiful floral offerings and dozens of spiritual bouquets, tokens of the esteem in which the departed was held. The Right Rev. Monsignor Stephen P. Connelly, P.R., and Monsignor Drury visited the home and said the prayers for the dead. Tuesday evening, St. Mary's Holy Name Society, led by President Leo T. Lynch, assembled at the residence and assisted Father Molony in the recitation of the rosary. The casket bearers were Robert Boyle, Richard Donnelly, Leonard O'Reilly, Dennis Carroll, William Connors and John Zaccaro. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery, where the final absolution and blessing was given by Father Molony.

Found Not Guilty
Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 17 (AP)—Richard J. Hanlon, 20, formerly of Newtown, Conn., now residing in White Plains, N. Y., yesterday was found not guilty of attempted robbery with violence by Superior Court Judge James E. Murphy. Hanlon, charged with the kidnap of Frank Toth's gasoline station in Stanely last November 8, had nine witnesses testify that he was at the White Plains home of his mother-in-law at the time.

E. F. Moran Dies In Hospital; Was Volunteer Fireman

Andrew Street Resident
Was 61; Had Been Ill Long Time;
Worked at M.J.M.

EDWARD F. MORAN

Edward F. Moran, 61, of Andrew street, one of the best known volunteer firemen in Kingston and the Hudson river valley, died in the Benedictine Hospital at 10:15 o'clock this morning, following a long illness.

Mr. Moran became interested in fireman affairs in Kingston when a young man and had been a member of Union Hose Co. since his youth. He had served that fire company as its president for 20 years.

When the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association was organized on April 15, 1935, at the Dugout on East Chestnut street, which that year was the home of Joyce-Schick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mr. Moran was elected to serve as first president of the new organization. He served as head of the organization for several terms. He also served as president of the Volunteer Firemen's Association of Kingston.

A member of Kingston Council of the Knights of Columbus he served in various offices. He was also a member of Kingston Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, and a Past Faithful Navigator of that organization.

Mr. Moran was deeply interested in charitable affairs and for many years was an active worker for the Catholic Charities in St. Mary's Parish. He was formerly a member of St. Vincent dePaul Society of St. Mary's Church.

For a number of years he was employed as building superintendent of the American Cigar Co. building, and he had also served as a janitor at the Myron J. Michael School.

Mr. Moran's active interest in fireman matters led to his being appointed a member of the Board of Fire Commissioners of Kingston, and he served several terms on the board.

He is survived by his wife.

Doenitz Says Sub Nearly Got Anglo Premier in 1939

Nuernberg, Jan. 17 (AP)—Adm. Karl Doenitz asserted today that a German U-boat nearly counted Winston Churchill among her victims one month after the second world war started.

Doenitz, serving 10 years as a war criminal, told an interrogator in his prison cell here that the incident happened west of the Orinco Islands in October, 1939, when a U-boat struck the 33,000-ton British battleship Nelson with three torpedoes which failed to explode because they were faulty. Doenitz said the U-boat captain was a "broken man" when he discovered later that Churchill was aboard the Nelson. He added that faulty torpedoes greatly hampered U-boat warfare, especially at the beginning of the war.

Doenitz did not say how he knew for certain Churchill was aboard the Nelson at the time, but he declared it had been confirmed through intelligence.

Admiralty Has No Record

London, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Admiralty said today it was aware of German claims that three torpedoes were fired at H.M.S. Nelson while Winston Churchill was on board shortly after the start of the war but declared "we have no record of them."

Churchill was on board the battle ship in November, 1939, a spokesman said.

Three Trustees Are Elected at Annual D.A.R. Meeting

Three trustees, Miss Louise van Hovenberg, Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger and Mrs. William Davis, were elected for a term of three years at the annual meeting of the Incorporated Society of Wiltwyck Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution Thursday afternoon. Miss van Hovenberg was also elected treasurer and Mrs. G. N. Wood secretary. Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm, regent, presided at the meeting.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. O. L. Schreiber spoke on "Historic Shrines of the Hudson Valley." She told of visiting the shrines which originally were homes and described the interiors and furniture. The shrines mentioned in order of their antiquity were Fort Canby, Albany Senate House, Kingston, Philipse Manor, Jonkers Tavern, New York city, Washington's Headquarters, Newburgh, Van Cortlandt House, Albany road, Schuylers Mansion, Albany, and Jumel Mansion, New York city.

The trustees of the society were hostesses at the tea which followed the meeting. The table was decorated with red roses. Preceding the meeting, the committee met to formulate plans for the bazaar and card party March 21. It was decided to have booths representing some of the different nationalities in this country at the time of the Revolution. All members are asked to bring donations to the February and March meetings.

Regents to Be Asked For Nursing Survey

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16 (AP)—A proposal for a state-directed survey of nursing service was expected to come before the Board of Regents tomorrow.

The survey proposal was made yesterday at a meeting of regents with representatives of nursing, medical, hospital and practical nurses organizations. The meeting was held at the request of nurses' groups that seek reconsideration of a regent's recommendation that the law requiring the licensing of practical nurses be repealed.

An education department spokesman said following the session that sentiment against repeal of the law was unanimous.

The state survey would seek to determine a policy of regulation to "insure adequate nursing care in New York state."

Meanwhile, Gene E. Helbig, executive director of the Registered Nurses Guild (A.F.L.), said the Guild would seek legislation changing the designation of practical nurses to "certified attendants" and prevent them from wearing nurses' white caps or head-dresses.

Helbig asserted that New York city hospitals "in some instances" were putting practical nurses in charge of wards. He described this as "tearing down the standards of nursing while affording a cheap source of labor for these institutions."

Births Recorded

The following births have been reported to the city registrar of vital statistics:

Legislators Will Show Something When Warmed Up

By HARRY O'DONNELL

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 17 (AP)—The scorching syntax legislative Republicans and Democrats tossed at each other early in the session is nothing compared to what they'll throw when both sides are fully warmed up.

But don't get them wrong. It is merely friendship at work. That is the word of the party leaders themselves.

A packed Assembly chamber heard the Democratic minority leader, Irwin Steingut, explode a growing popular belief, namely that the Democrats would not tell the Republicans the correct time of day.

With hundreds of opening day spectators bearing witness, Steingut grandiloquently asserted:

"To my Republican colleagues, I wish a very happy New Year."

So, when the Republicans not only squeeze the Democrats with their better than two-to-one voting majority but garnish the treatment with hundreds of choice clauses and irritating indirect objects, they presumably are taking Steingut at his word.

They are having a happy new year.

Steingut, who well knows that to Democratic votes and 10,000,000 words can not offset 100 Republican votes with no sound effects, added:

"Keep Sense of Humor"

"Never let us lose our sense of humor. . . . The most important thing is that when we have concluded the affairs of the Assembly we leave as friends with regard, respect and affection for each other."

The Brooklyn Democrat then conceded that as long as we must have a Republican speaker (Oswald E. Heck of Schenectady), I know of no man in the Assembly for whom I have greater respect and affection. I wish him health and happiness."

Heck, who apparently has heard the same sentiments from Steingut ever since succeeding Irving M. Laves as speaker in 1937, greeted the remark for support. The noise of his gavel for the rest of the day had a friendlier, albeit final, tang.

The speaker, possibly anticipating Steingut's remarks, had risen to the occasion a few minutes earlier.

Thanking Republicans for re-electing him speaker, Heck declared:

"I shall endeavor to conduct the affairs of the Assembly in the future as I have the past, impartially and fairly to the end that if animosities arise they will be short-lived; and to the end that the reputation and tradition of this House shall be maintained as that place where friendships lasting a lifetime are born."

In return for their happy New Year wish, the Democrats were promised full opportunity to try to make millions of words offset a deficiency of votes.

Won't Cut Debates

Lee B. Mailler, the new G.O.P. floor leader, assured the Assembly he would "try to see that everyone on the floor has a fair opportunity to express an opinion." He said he would not further any "arbitrary motions to cut off debate."

Steingut quickly took him up on the generous gesture. Less than two hours later, the Democratic leader loudly accused Governor Dewey of a political homicide.

He said that Dewey—not mentioned by name in Steingut's "happy New Year" greeting—had practically taken the position of killing further low-cost public permanent housing in the state.

The Republicans sprang speedily to Dewey's defense. After that, the Republican-Democratic "friendship" in the larger house became warmer and more vociferous daily.

Second Place Slot In DUSO Standings At Stake in Game

Maroons Slight Favorites to Win; Liberty Seeks Fifth Straight in Tilt With Monties

This basketball night here in Kingston as Middletown High School and Kingston High collide in a vital DUSO League attraction at the municipal auditorium. The main feature is slated for 8:15 o'clock with a prelim going on at the 7 o'clock bell.

Liberty Meets Monties
In tonight's only other league action the undefeated Liberty Redskins seek their fifth straight league victory by routing the Monticelli High at the latter's court.

Tonight's encounter here in Kingston will decide the ownership of second place in the current first half standings. Coach Mac Wagner's Middletown varsity currently holds down the second place berth with a record of three wins in four starts. Coach G. Warren Kent Maroon quintet is third with two wins and one setback.

Although the Middies are high in the standings, odds on tonight's battle slightly favor the Kingston five due to its high-scoring ability demonstrated in recent contests. Beaten only by Liberty and then on foul shots alone, the Maroons have come back strong by rolling up more than 50 points against Fallsburg and Saugerties in non-league victories.

Led by their formidable center, Eddie Weaver, the Maroon has

Rowe Balks When Offered Contract

Philadelphia, Jan. 17 (AP)—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the aged right-hander who turned out to be the ace of the Philadelphia Phillies pitching staff last year, is having contract trouble with the Blue Jay managements.

Rowe doesn't like it. Neither do the Phillies' bosses. The former hurler for the Detroit Tigers says he "can't understand" Herb Pennock, Phil general manager.

"He offered me what amounts to a cut, asked me to work on a bonus contract and I never worked on a bonus in my life," Rowe said. "If I had to make as much as I did last year I have to win 12 games."

Countered Pennock: "Rowe signed a bonus contract last year based on winning 12 games. This year I offered him the same contract as last. I don't see where he has any kick. I always pitched under a bonus contract after I was 30 years old. I didn't like it either, but I had to do it."

Del Ennis, Phil's outfielder who won the 1946 "rookie of the year" title, is also balking at contract terms offered him.

Free for Baseball

Trippi's document with Chicago will leave him free to deal for his baseball services. And Bidwill said he would recommend to Charley that he accept an offer to hook up with the Chicago Cubs, passing up bids from the Boston Red Sox, Boston Braves, Philadelphia Phillies, Atlanta and Birmingham of the Southern Association, and perhaps others.

The Cubs, Bidwill disclosed, would give Trippi a $10,000 bonus to play with their Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League next season, and then, if he proved himself a Big League talent, went up to the Cubs the following year, would pay $20,000. Thus they would match the $30,000 cash bonus dangled by the Red Sox.

Trippi agreed that his "first love" was football and added that one of the reasons for rejecting the Yankee offer was because he wanted a football contract apart from baseball, something the Yankees would not concede.

Choice Was Necessary

The Yankee's offer of $105,000 to Trippi to play five years of football and two years of baseball represented a large cash deal that Bidwill had offered but Trippi would not agree to the clause stipulating that after two years he would have to choose between the sports, dropping one or the other.

Earlier in the day Trippi said he was "seriously considering" an offer from the Birmingham Barons to play baseball for $400 a month salary, a $10,000 bonus, and 50 per cent of the sale price if he is sold to a Major League club.

Fox on Way to Europe

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—John J. (Donna) Fox of Larchmont, N. Y., is on his way to Europe to attend the International Amateur Bobbed Federation Congress at St. Moritz, Switzerland as a representative of the Amateur Athletic Union. He may participate in the world championships he is staged at St. Moritz next month.

Point for Saturday's Game

Joe Dinkwood and Larry Dodick, stellar basketball artists of Coach Rudy Conroy's Kingston Chiefs listen to the famous St. Francis College coach who's relating some vital pointers for Saturday's important American Professional Basketball League contest with the Troy Celtics at the municipal auditorium. Both Dinkwood and Dodick were the backbone of last week's big 72 to 65 win over Elizabeth and local court fans hope to see them do the same this week against the invading Troy quintet. Conroy, who is regarded as one of the top coaches in the A.P.B.L. today, coached St. Francis College before the war.

High Falls Downs Wallkill Quintet By 40 to 38 Score

Williams and Cohen Lead Firemen; McCann Nets 11 for Losing Five; Play Milton Nex

The High Falls Firemen traveled to Wallkill this week and defeated the Legion team of that village by the score of 40 to 38 in a well-played and hotly-contested game.

The Firemen took the lead at the start and were out in front at the half, 22 to 13. Wallkill came back strong in the closing half, however, and nearly pulled the game out of the fire but the Falls-men managed to hang on for the win.

Williams and Cohen provided the big offensive for the Firemen with 17 and 12 points respectively. McCann and Terwilliger scored 11 and 10 each for Wallkill.

In the prelim the Wallkill Juniors scored a 35 to 15 victory over the Firemen Juniors.

Game Stated Saturday

The Gilmore Packers of Milton will play the Firemen in the regular Saturday night attraction at Firemen's Hall. Milton was the first game between these two clubs by one point earlier in the season.

Second Round Is On Tap; Mangrum Is Out in Front

Richmond, Calif., Jan. 17 (AP)—Spurred by a record equaling second-round knockout by Lloyd M. Grogan of Chicago, the nations leading golfers teed off today in the second round of the $10,000 Richmond 72 hole open golf tournament after one of the greatest scoring spurges of modern tournament play.

Forty-eight of the 152 entrants bettered par 71 over the 6,000 yard Richmond course. Perfect golfing weather, a course in top playing condition and lack of wind, which usually sweeps the fairways, combined to provide a "made to order" layout for the sure-stroking pros and top amateurs.

Despite his scoring spurge, which equaled the course Empire record set two years ago by Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Mangrum at the end of the first round was only one stroke ahead of William Fritz, Colma California professional. Mangrum carded a 34-30 for his 64 while Fritz turned in a 32-33 for 65.

Bunched on the heels of the leaders was a group of three professionals including Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., money winner of the tournament circuit in 1946 and a favorite with Mangrum to grab top cash in the Richmond Open. The three who scored 68's include Tony Penna of Cincinnati and Coo Schoux, formerly of New York, who now has returned to San Bruno, Calif. All had identical cards of 33-33—66.

Rose Schatzel Pops 617 Triple Score In Colonial League

Jo Smith Registers Top Single Game of 212; Mayorettes Slice Chez Emile Lead

Rose Schatzel, marking time until her second and final 10 games with Jean "Mickey" Michaels Saturday night in New York city for the $500 purse, demonstrated to perfection Wednesday night in the Colonial Women's League that she is a tough customer when action gets underway on the Gotham alleys.

Rose, leadoff for the Jones Dairies, rifled another one of her many triples with a 617 effort on a line string of 209-204-204. Despite Mrs. Schatzel's big triple the Dairies were beaten twice by the Kingston Knitters.

Dividing honors with Rose Wednesday night was Jo Smith of the Elston combine who popped another one of her 200 games with a 212 in her first attempt. She wound up with a 500 triple.

Other notable efforts in the league matches were turned in by such stalwarts as Margie Jansen with 208-557, Dot Ravding 186-511, Flo Carlson 179-508, Betty Boyce 180-506, Evelyn Moore 170-504 and Rita Markle 181-503.

The Mayorettes moved to within one game of the first place Chez Emile squad Wednesday with a clean sweep over Phalanx & Cahill. Chez Emile managed to win a double from the Elks Auxiliary tandem. The third place Dairies lost two to the Knitters who look over fourth place from Arlenes. Arlenes dropped to a two-way tie with Evergreen Inn for fifth.

Wrestler Casey Stricken, May Never Compete

Boston, Jan. 17 (AP)—Steve Casey, a top ranking pro wrestler, was under treatment today at Boston City Hospital for severe back strain and paralysis of the lower right leg, which, his physician said, may end his competitive career. Casey was stricken while driving to the Boston Arena where he was scheduled to meet Frank Sexton last night.

Dr. Frank B. Sullivan described Casey's condition as recurrence of an old injury he suffered in the army five years ago. The doctor said Casey hurt his back again in a New York bout two weeks ago and further aggravated the injury last week in a bout here with the Hooded Terror.

Yankees Sign Young

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Daily Mirror said today that it had learned that Buddy Young, star Negro halfback who sparked Illinois to a Rose Bowl victory over U.S.L.A., has been signed by the New York Yankees of the All-America Football Conference. The newspaper said that Young had been offered "one of the highest salaries in professional football history." The newspaper printed no further details. No official of the Yankees was available for immediate comment. Young was last reported in Illinois after his return from the Rose Bowl.

40 Apply for Job

Easton, Pa., Jan. 17 (AP)—Forty persons have applied for the head football coaching job at Lafayette College, but an alumni spokesman indicated that two names—Wisconsin's Harry Stuldrer and Andy Gustafson, Army backfield mentor—are getting the most consideration.

Ruth Is Improved

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—Babe Ruth is very much improved, French Hospital authorities said today. They said the former home run king sat up yesterday for a short time and on the whole they were satisfied with his condition.

Virgilio Scores Kayo; Will Box Posey Here Jan. 22

Father, 2 Brothers, Tell Barney to Quit; B'nai B'rith Has Three Main Bouts for Wednesday

Barney Emberson's bid for the bantamweight championship of the Hudson Valley was exploded by the A-Bomb fists of Carmine Virgilio, Thursday night, before a capacity crowd at Lincoln Center, Poughkeepsie.

Making good a challenge he hurled at the Poughkeepsie several months ago the St. Remy 120-pounder lasted only one minute and 14 seconds after the timor's bell had sounded the beginning of the five-round match.

Virgilio, who is paired with Eddie Posey, metropolitan bantam champion, on B'nai B'rith's card at the auditorium next Wednesday night, hooked Emberson with a stinging left and followed with a right cross that dumped him to the canvas for a count of nine, 40 seconds after the opening gong.

Barney arose, but his strength and fighting spirit had been sapped by those two "atomic blows." He was a target for a repeat, and when Virgilio delivered the second left-right barrage, the St. Remy bantam floundered like a battle-slayer after a direct hit and sank to the ring deck. Referee Joe Stella counted 10 and it was all over.

Although Emberson took the match against the advice of friends and his trainer, Monk Armstrong, former Diamond Bell middleweight champion, there were those who gave him an edge on the Poughkeepsie cab driver, who is considered one of the best 118-pounders in the amateur ranks.

Barney's Last, Says Dad

The Emberson backers based their hope on Barney's victory over Joe Zoldack, after the Cleveland ring star had beaten Carmine, and to the improvement he showed in running up a skein of victories.

"This is Barney's last," insisted his dad, Carson Emberson, after the fight. His two brothers, Frankie and Buddy, who once boxed Lou Ambers, concurred that the third member of the boxing Emberson clan should "hang 'em up."

Virgilio Here January 22

Virgilio considered the match a tune-up for his January 22 bout with Eddie Posey on B'nai B'rith's show at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium. He never doubted his superiority over Emberson, and hopes to establish his Hudson valley bantam title by defeating the metropolitan crown bearer next Wednesday.

The Virgilio-Posey five rounder is considered one of three main races, the other two being between Ike Jenkins, New York welterweight star, and Tony Barone, Schenectady power-puncher, and Eddie Martor, 145-pounder from Albany and Dave Edwards of New York, who knocked out Jimmy Kennedy of Buffalo on the last local card.

Kingston Victors

Last night Dave Brandon of Kingston decisively beat Manning, 170, Peckskill, in the Poughkeepsie curtain raiser, and in a substitution bout, Tommy Davis, Kingston middleweight outpointed William Verhoek, another local amateur pugilist. Eddie Marton, prepping for his duel with Dave Edwards in Kingston, decisively beat Paul Hawkes, Beacon.

Sam Taub, WHN sportscaster, and Johnny Colan, New York heavyweight, matched with Jake LaMotta for March 7, were guests at the Poughkeepsie boxing show.

County Ski Slopes Reported as Poor; Hillsdale Best Bet

With no skiing reported at Phoenicia, Pine Hill and Rosendale for week-end enthusiasts, the only area in the Southern New York Catskills with good conditions is at Hillsdale where good skiing is reported with a six-inch depth.

Other areas reported by the Associated Press are as follows: Northern New York—Adirondacks.

Turin—snow ridge—fair, surface 1 inch new snow, 30 inch old base; weather cloudy, temperature 28.

Old Forge—slopes good, trails fair; surface granular, base 21 inches; weather cloudy, temperature 27.

Lake Placid—good; surface thin, breakable crust; 20 inch packed base; weather cloudy, temperature 27.

Heart Lake—fair; 1 inch new powder, 14 inch old base; cloudy, temperature 34.

Schroon Lake—good; no report on surface, 14 inch packed base; snow flurries, temperature 30.

Speculator—good; con surface, 300 inch base; snow flurries, temperature 30.

Four Are in Race

Boston, Jan. 17 (AP)—The field for the K. C. mile, feature event of the revived Knights of Columbus track and field meet at the Boston Garden on January 25, jumped to four today when entries were received from Frank Dixon, former New York University star, and Ed Walsh of Manhattan College. The first two appearances were from Bob Ginn of Nebraska, and Earl Mitchell of Indiana. That of Gil Dadds, the indoor mile record-holder, is expected before the entries close tomorrow.

Graham, Kessler Will Fight 10 Rounds

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—Bily Graham and Ruby Kessler, two aspirants for the welterweight crown held by Ray Robinson, clash in the ten round feature bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Graham, who like Kessler hails from New York, has lost only two of the 69 professional bouts he has participated in and on both occasions was outpointed by Tony Peltone.

Schatzel-Michaels Will Meet In Final Block on Saturday

Rose Schatzel will defend her two-pin lead against Jean "Mickey" Michaels before a large gallery of Kingston rooters Saturday night at the Bowlmor Recreation in New York city in the final block of their 20-game match for $500, it was assured today.

Mrs. Schatzel's final stand against the New York state women's all-events and singles champion will be followed by a doubleheader involving Kaye Sportswear and Jones Dairy at the Waterfalls Recreation in Garfield New Jersey, Sunday at 4 o'clock.

Supporters Charter Bus
Through the efforts of Evelyn Francis and a few other loyal supporters, a 37 passenger bus has been chartered and will leave the Central Recreations at 2 o'clock Saturday. All reservations have been sold.

Reports from New York indicate that Miss Michaels is a solid favorite to defeat the local representative. The state champion averages around 150 on one of the tough pair of drives at the Bowlmor and is expected to pile up a substantial lead in the early games.

Joneses in Action
Jones Dairy's No. 1 Hudson Valley League squad will swing into action against the powerful United States Linen keggers of Paterson in the March of Dimes exhibition at Garfield.

Local bowling fans will recall the Linsens as the squad that hammered out a 3179 series on alleys 15 and 16 late last season. The Linsens personnel has been strengthened by the addition of Wally Palrick, New Jersey ace who once led the nation with eight 700 triples in one league.

According to John Hogan, captain of the squad, the Linsens are averaging better than 1000 in two leagues. Ad Jones, Harold Broskie, John Schatzel, Johnny Ferraro and Charlie Tiano will roll for the Dairyman.

Kayes Seek 8th Straight
Kaye Sportswear bounces back from its spectacular triumph over the famous Hillenbachs of the Metropolitan Major League to engage an all-star team of Garfield, N. J. ladies in the second half of the attraction.

The regular lineup of Rose Schatzel, Evelyn Moore, Dot Flemings, Marge Jansen, Charlotte Lapine and Betty Boyce will appear for Kayes.

Sales Are Reported
New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—Eleven of the more than 30 exhibitors on the main floor of the National Motor Boat Show report sales aggregating $2,500,000 for the first five days.

BOWLING

Emerick's Ladies' League
Marge Jansen of the league-leading Mayorettes and Jo Smith of the seventh-place Schwenk club, divided honors in Emerick's Ladies' League Tuesday with a 552 triple and 227 single respectively.

Mrs. Jansen peeled off a string of 161-198-193 for her 552 three-timer and paced the Mayorettes to two victories over Schneiders. Jo Smith opened with a 143, hit her 227 in the middle game and finished with 137 for a 507 triple for Schwenks who won all three from Singers.

In other league matches Elatons won a pair from Fullers with Helen Broskie leading the attack with a 189 single and 483 series. Mary Wyant's 398 topped Fullers. Sams also won two from Sterleys. F. Kelder's 455 was high for Sams. M. Mackey had a 421 for Sterleys.

Again in 1946
CHEVROLET IS FIRST

First IN CAR PRODUCTION . . . First IN TRUCK PRODUCTION
First IN COMBINED CAR AND TRUCK PRODUCTION!

AGAIN at the close of 1946—when America's need for new motor cars and trucks is most urgent—the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors leads all other manufacturers in automotive production. This means that Chevrolet is first in passenger car production—first in truck production—first in combined passenger car and truck production . . . despite the fact that all Chevrolet plants were closed completely during the first three months of 1946! Naturally, Chevrolet hopes to be able to build more and more of these fine products which America is buying so eagerly—the only motor car giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST—the only truck giving BIG-TRUCK QUALITY AT LOWEST COST—the complete Chevrolet line which stands out as the lowest-priced line in its field! One word of caution about deliveries: There still aren't enough new Chevrolets to go around, but obviously you'll get quicker delivery by purchasing the product of America's largest builder of cars and trucks, and you'll get higher quality by purchasing the product America likes best—Chevrolet!

Remember . . . LARGEST PRODUCTION means QUICKEST DELIVERY of your new car. Place and keep your order with us for a new Chevrolet and get biggest value as well as earliest possible delivery!

Oil Burner Theft Solved, F.B.I. Says; Six Persons Held

Newark, N. J., Jan. 17 (AP)—Solution of the theft of 137 oil burners valued at $30,000 was announced yesterday by New Jersey F.B.I. Chief S. K. McKee who said that six persons, two of them juveniles, had been arrested.

The burners were stolen December 10 from the warehouse of I. Burack Plumbing and Heating Supply Company of Saw Mill River Road, Yonkers, N. Y. McKee said Elmo Colasanti, 29, of Newark, arrested on charges of violating federal statutes of theft from interstate shipment, was a "modern fag" who taught the two juveniles to do the dangerous part of the theft while he looked on.

The names of the two juveniles who were turned over to the U. S. probation officer were withheld. They will be charged with violation of the Federal Juvenile Delinquency Act, McKee said.

Arrested on the same charge as Colasanti was Anthony Pietropolo, 18, of Newark.

Colasanti was held last night by U. S. Commissioner M. Lester Lynch in $15,000 bail, and Pietropolo was held in $1,000.

McKee also announced the arrests of Angelo Grasso, 28, of Newark, and Martin Scotti, 28, of Hoboken, on charges of receiving stolen goods.

Arraigned before Commissioner Lynch, Grasso and Scotti were released in $1,000 and $500 bail respectively.

McKee said the two purchased some of the burners from Colasanti and Pietropolo. He said about $17,000 of the loot had been recovered and that the investigation was continuing with the search centering on Garfield.

The F.B.I. chief said that the two juveniles entered the warehouse and drove back to Newark with the burners while Colasanti and his partner followed in an automobile.

Hertzog Is Winner

La Paz, Bolivia, Jan. 17 (AP)—Final official results of Bolivia's January 5 presidential election today gave Enrique Hertzog, a former cabinet minister and candidate of the Socialist Republican Union, 279 votes more than his nearest opponent, Luis Fernando Guachalla, leftist revolutionary. The Ministry of Interior said the final count was 43,581 for Hertzog and 43,302 for Guachalla. Officials said, however, that the election of Hertzog as President would not be proclaimed pending canvass of the vote count by Congress. The new President will succeed the Junta which has ruled Bolivia since the July revolution in which President Gualberto Villarroel was hanged from a lamppost.

Would Know Snail's Pace

College Park, Md., Jan. 17 (AP)—The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service laboratory here wants to know exactly what a snail's pace is. In fact, the snail's every movement is being studied as a means to exterminating the creature, which drills holes in the shells of Chesapeake Bay oysters. Said Dr. Paul S. Galtsoff, chief of the shellfish investigating section: "When we find out how far and how fast it travels and when it stops, we'll know better how to cope with it."

Parker Arrested

Harry Cohen of Newburgh was arrested last night by the police charged with all night parking on Belvidere street. He posted $2 bail for his appearance later in police court.

Red Is Back in Favor In Service Insignia

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—The color red, which was on the Army-Navy black list during the war, has rejoined white and blue in the insignia of the armed services.

The old red-circle-on-white-star design which used to decorate such equipment as airplanes and trucks was dropped when experience showed gunners were prone to mistake it for the Japanese "meatball" marking in the heat of battle.

A white star flanked by a white rectangle on a blue background was substituted. The red returns, with peace, as a stripe centered on the white rectangle.

Play Review

by
SYLVESTER HOWARD

Ever since Charlotte Bronte wrote "Jane Eyre" authors have been intrigued by big houses which conceal women in the attic. Hugh White in "Little A" has concocted a mixture of madness, adultery, a murder which makes an incredible play. "Little A" is the nickname of his own.

Since his father is described as being an overwhelming personality, apparently he was the extreme example of a rich, crude, American business man. All through the play there is an elaborate attempt to explain the psychological effects which this has on the unfortunate son. Few sons could compete with such a father, but "Little A" is afflicted, in addition, with a wife who is a monster, a son who is a boor, and friends who are stupid.

Evidently the only people in the town who are at least tolerable are the doctor and a young musician who works as a maid. With this depressing background as the starting point, the play proceeds to fantastic melodrama.

The first act is intolerably dull because the author thought he was a stenographer. The silly conversation of a group of imbeciles is recorded verbatim. Fortunately, in the next two acts, they stop talking and start knocking each other around, poisoning drinks, and waving guns.

Part of the time the actors try to seem like real human beings. Before very long, however, they give up and rant about the stage like characters in a mystery thriller.

Jessie Royce Landis is majestic and heartless in a role that seems to be a cross between the queen in "Hamlet" and Lady Macbeth. Otto Kruger plays the difficult little role with restraint, but even he eventually starts waving his arms. His daughter, Ottile Kruger, is sweet as the pathetic maid, and Robert Willey is properly repugnant as the hulking son, Wallis Clark, who plays the doctor, is the only normal person in the cast and sometimes he begins to seem a bit queer.

"Little A" has its moments of tension, but it is mechanical and unoriginal. Instead of being thrilling, it is a worthless bore.

4 New Police Cars

The Board of Police Commissioners at its monthly meeting Thursday afternoon authorized the purchase of four new Chevrolet automobiles to replace the present four Chevrolets now in use by the police department. The board reported that the only bid received was one from the Colonial City Chevrolet.

Two Burmeses Are Killed

Rangoon, Jan. 17 (AP)—A government press communique said today that two Burmeses were killed and two wounded Tuesday when police fired on a crowd of 300 Communists attempting to free comrades who were jailed in connection with looting rice.

to re-establish Y.W. buildings, programs and "spiritual rehabilitation in the wake of war."

In concluding her talk, Miss Russ asked for more volunteers from the present membership to share the responsibilities of the local program.

Directors Elected

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Herbert Fisher, president, nine members were elected to the Board of Directors. They are Mrs. Roger Baer, Mrs. Allen Baker, Miss Helena Clearwater, Mrs. Theron Culver, Miss Sara Israel, Mrs. Edwin O'Reilly, Miss Mildred Simmons, Mrs. John Connors and Miss Elise Fielder.

Members were presented by Mrs. Lloyd LeFever as a letter of balloons returned by mail. The nominating committee included Mrs. Frederick Holcomb, chairman, Miss Florence Corbitt, Mrs. Noble Graham, Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. John Herlihy, Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. A. R. Stitzer.

The nominating committee for 1948 will include Mrs. Herbert Fisher, Mrs. Arthur J. Laidlaw, Mrs. George Simpkins, Miss Dorothy Diamond, Mrs. Hugh Elwyn, Mrs. Alfred Schmid and Mrs. G. Herbert DeKay.

Musical Program

A short musical program was given. Miss Dorothea Groves, soprano, sang, "When I Have Sung My Song," Ernest Charles, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Jerome Kern and "I'll See You Again," Noel Coward. She was accompanied by Bruce Decker, Mrs. Bertrand Bishop, pianist, played Chopin's "Nocturne in F Sharp," and Count Zichy's "Valse d'Adieu" written for the left hand.

Miss Elise Fielder, recording secretary, read the report of the 1946 annual meeting. Miss Frances Osterhoudt gave the annual report of the treasurer in which she listed $2,938.44 cash on hand.

Reports

Detailed reports of each department, club and committee were mimeographed and placed in attractive folders at each place. Among the notices were the annual list of Miss Ethel L. Roberts, new executive director, and Miss Audria Stinger, new teenage program director. The new "home" was purchased. There were a total of 376 senior members and 265 junior members. The aggregate attendance at "Y" activities for the past year was 13,046.

The camping season at Triangle Acres saw 65 different girls from 56 families in attendance. Recommendations for camp this year are continuation of six-week period; improvement of swimming facilities; increase in accommodations for more than 31 campers; improvement in tennis courts. Mrs. Fisher introduced many of the committee chairman present last night. Prior to the meeting a baked ham dinner was served by the hospitality committee under the direction of Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger, chairman. It was served by members of the Teen Age department. During the supper hour, Miss Roberts led group singing with Mr. Decker at the piano. The Rev. W. Wesley Williams, St. James Methodist Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Blast Cause Is Mystery

Plymouth, Pa., Jan. 17 (AP)—Cause of the explosion that killed 15 anthracite miners in the Nottingham colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Co. Wednesday continued a mystery today as federal and state inspectors probed the rubble of the wrecked shaft 850 feet below the surface.

German Building Facts Are Again Placed as Secrets

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Five months after publishing details of how the Germans went underground to avoid Allied aerial bombing, the Army and Navy have stamped the information as a military secret.

Involved, it was learned today, are three reports on construction and design of 116 German underground installations such as Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat.

The joint Army-Navy Intelligence Objectives Agency intimated the reports for public consumption before the Commerce Department Office of Technical Services (O.T.S.) offered photographic and microfilm copies for sale to anyone interested last August 22.

Now the O.T.S. has been directed to withdraw the copies, including those which have been available to patrons of the Library of Congress.

A War Department official said today no explanation is likely to be made public.

O.T.S. officials said they were given no reason for the reclamation of secrecy, but that it would be logical to assume the intelligence agency believed something in the reports might involve national security.

They said the Army-Navy arm has done the same thing with a number of other reports—perhaps 300 or so—first approving their release, later ordering them withdrawn.

A check of O.T.S. files failed to show purchase of any of the German underground installations reports, but the files were "more than a month" behind on orders.

O.T.S. officials said practically all foreign nations have bought some of its reports, which cover a wide range of U. S. and German information, including industrial, aviation and ordnance information. Most sales are to American business firms.

Russia has been one of the best customers among foreign buyers. Great Britain has an arrangement with this country for mutual exchange of such reports.

Hiccough Victim Is Granted Relief

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—Anna Mayer rested at her Queens home today after an operation that ended 60 days of convulsive hiccoughing.

Relief came to the 23-year-old girl yesterday when Dr. Lester Samuels, surgeon at the Veterans Administration hospital at Alexandria, La., removed part of her right phrenic nerve near the heart.

Dr. Samuels had come here after Mrs. Mayer appealed to President Truman to grant him leave. He had ended another long spell of hiccoughing two years ago by cutting the girl's left phrenic nerve.

Doctors reported her condition as "still serious but not critical" because of loss of weight and other effects.

Dairymen's League Sells Its Butter To 26,000 Members

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—The huge pile of butter bought by the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association last month to support January milk prices is being sold to the organization's 26,000 members with the loss shared among them, league officials said yesterday.

It appeared, however, that the overall transaction was profitable to the members, considering the money that would have been lost if the January milk price had tumbled as league officials expected when they instituted the butter-buying program.

Henry H. Rathbun, president of the association, said in Buffalo that the purchases on Dec. 18, 19, 20, 23 and 24 totaled about 700,000 pounds, or approximately 27 pounds for each member of the milk marketing cooperative.

Roughly 80,000 pounds already have been disposed of to members, Rathbun said, adding "we expect to sell it all within seven to eight weeks." The butter is stored in a New York city warehouse.

The association made its purchases at 84 cents a pound or slightly above, as compared with a quotation of 64 cents a pound for top grade butter on yesterday's New York wholesale market.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Jinxed Journey

South Berd, Wash., Jan. 17 (AP)—Driving a truck loaded with dynamite, Tom Evans, ran into a little trouble. The rear spring broke, locking the wheels, and the truck overturned. But nothing blew up.

He reloaded on another truck and four miles along a defective steering wheel locked and that truck turned over. Still nothing blew up.

But the third try was a success. That is, he got to his destination safely.

No Clipping

Tokyo, Jan. 17 (AP)—Barbers raised their haircut prices to 15 yen.

Police banned the new rate. Barbers went on strike, then agreed on the old rate of 7.5 to 10 yen plus a tip for the difference up to 45 yen.

Police sent out plain clothesmen to arrest barbers accepting the higher rate under any guise and customers who pay more than the old scale.

Suit Shortage

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 17 (AP)—Mayor H. D. Allison has trouble finding suits to fit his five-foot frame.

He ordered a new wardrobe for the United States Conference of Mayors at Washington.

Wednesday the Plymouth Clothing Company notified him of receipt of his suit and coat.

That night fire destroyed the company's entire stock.

He'll attend the conference—in his old clothes.

Potpourri

Honolulu, Jan. 17 (AP)—It'll be a miracle if the crew of the little freighter "Lian" Esling, enroute from Honolulu to Shanghai, gets anything but hush from its League of Nations galley.

F. W. Guth, Medina, Wash., the steward speaks only English.

Chief Cook Rene Serignati speaks only French.

Second Cook Chow Kang speaks only Chinese.

"How do we get along?" asks Guth. "Well, I just say yes all the time."

Serignati says something like "Il n'y a pas de quoi" every now and then.

Chow just grins a "ding how" at what appears to be the proper moment.

Simple Solution

Salt Lake City, Jan. 17 (AP)—Mrs. A. A. Wagner called the sheriff's office when eight-year-old daughter Sharron was missing two hours after she was due home from a church meeting.

Officers, learning the girl had been at a neighbor's house an hour after she left the church, suggested Mrs. Wagner look around the Wagner home.

She found Sharron—sleeping in bed.

The girl explained she feared punishment for failing to return home promptly, so slipped in a back door.

Baldheaded Meeting

A special meeting to elect new officers will be held by the Broadway House Baldheaded Men's Club, Broadway and Cornell street, Sunday at 3 p. m.

Robert Hamma, radarman, first class, U.S.N., son of Mrs. M. E. Glennon of 26 Wilbur avenue, is serving aboard the carrier, U.S.S. Princeton, attached to the Fleet on foreign duty. Hamma, who reported to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., entered the naval service July 28, 1941, and received his recruit training at Newport, R. I.

Tennis Star Is Jailed on Count Involving Minor

Los Angeles, Jan. 17 (AP)—Nine months at hard labor stretched out today before William T. (Big Bill) Tilden, former monarch of the tennis court, following sentence on a morals charge involving a 14-year-old boy.
Routine county jail procedure, fingerprinting, form-filling and the like, occupied Tilden's new life—beginning at 53—as he awaited assignment to a road gang where tennis will be so much dream stuff. Graying, stoop-shouldered Tilden, the net wizard who blazed a triumphant trail through the golden '20s, swayed and almost fell yesterday when Superior Judge A. A. Scott passed sentence.
Tilden had pleaded guilty to the charge of contributing to the boy's delinquency, but obviously expected clemency.
"In view of your tendencies," Judge Scott told the ashen-faced athlete, "I think it would be dangerous to let you go free now."
At the request of Tilden's attorney, Richard Maddox, the court changed its original sentence of nine months in jail to nine months on the road gang.
Maddox expressed the hope that Tilden, with good behavior, might possibly be released earlier.
Tilden said nothing.
Orders Psychiatrist
Ordering Tilden to see a psychiatrist after his release, Judge Scott denied Tilden's plea for immediate probation and stay of execution.
"It comes as a great shock to all, particularly sport fans, that you should admit to such practices," Judge Scott said.
After serving his time, the court ruled, Tilden will be on probation for five years and "must never be in the company of either male or female juveniles unaccompanied by their parents."
Arrested in November
The tennis pro was arrested last November in his automobile in company with the youngster.
"You have been an idol to thousands of youngsters and admired by millions of adults throughout the world because of your prowess as a tennis player," Judge Scott said.
"Your admitted practice is something we do not expect from great athletes. Also let this be an object lesson to parents so they might more closely supervise their growing children."
